Soviet Attempt To Wreck Suez Talks Expected

Russia Favors Bigger Parley

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Soviet Union was reported scheming tonight to wreck the 22-nation Suez Canal conference at the outset Thursday and substitute a bigger one on Soviet-Egyptian lines.

Reports of the Soviet maneuver came from Moscow as Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd insisted in a radio broadcast here that Britain would work for a peaceful solution of the canal control problem. He defended Britain's military show of force as precautionary.

Lloyd spoke shortly after Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov arrived and announced that the issue should be settled by "all the states concerned."

Egypt, Greece Rejected Bids

Britain, France and the United States invited 24 nations to discuss international control of the canal, whose operating company was nationalized by Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Greece and Egypt refused to attend.

The Soviet Union, in its qualified acceptance of the invitation last week proposed that 45 countries be invited to a parley. The list included all the European Communist countries and all the Arab nations.

Nasser, in rejecting the Western bid Sunday, also said that about 45 countries, including all those that regularly used the canal, should be included in any Suez conference.

Moscow sources said Shepilov planned at the opening of the conference to move for adjournment and a meeting somewhere else in the larger form suggested by Nasser. Shepilov was reported ready to announce that Russia would refuse to abide by decisions made in London on the ground that the conference is not competent to act without Egypt.

Dulles Is Hopeful

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles and nine advisers took off for the meeting — and Dulles' first dealings with the new Soviet foreign minister — hopeful of finding a peaceful settlement of the crisis.

Dulles said he and President Eisenhower believe there are a good many formulas to establish international control of the 103-mile canal and that any nations rejecting such formulas "will have a heavy responsibility before the world."

U.S. Readies Oil Pool Plan If Suez Shipping Halted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The government today announced formation of a petroleum "Middle East emergency committee" to pool resources of the American industry in meeting the oil needs of Europe and the United States if Suez shipping is cut off.

Mobilization director Arthur S. Flemming said the committee, made up of 13 of the companies engaged in foreign petroleum operations, is preparing for these actions if Middle Eastern supplies are cut off:

1. The pooling "without regard to ownership," of the companies' terminal, storage and transportation facilities to achieve their most efficient use. This presumably would include the private tanker fleets.

2. The exchanging of crude oil among the companies by sale, loan or otherwise, to meet American needs as well as those of Western Europe and other areas affected.

3. Increasing or reducing of crude oil production and refining in overseas fields as may be needed to reduce the difficulties of transportation.

Flemming added that if Suez shipments are blocked and pipelines in the area are shut off, Britain and Western Europe would have to ration oil—but that no reduction in American consumption is foreseen. The canal was seized by Egypt July 26, and a conference will open in London Thursday on the question of a return to international control.

Flemming said the emergency committee—sanctioned by Secretary of State Dulles—has the immediate job of estimating (1) requirements of each foreign country for every type of petroleum product, and (2) checking each nation's oil stocks and transportation facilities.

House Leader Declares Ike 'Passes Buck'

U.S. Foreign Affairs 'Mishandled' In Time Of Peril, Texan Says

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn tonight accused President Eisenhower and his Republican administration of "mishandling" this country's foreign affairs in "the most perilous times in world history."

Rayburn lit into Eisenhower directly, accusing him of "passing the buck" to subordinates for alleged failures at home and abroad.

Raking the GOP leadership for what he called its "still-born policy of massive retaliation," Rayburn said this is a policy which "involves the taking of the most serious risks with the lives and fortunes and honor of the American people."

The veteran House leader from Texas also flailed the administration's farm, labor, social welfare and business policies in a speech prepared for his installation as permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention.

Lack Of Interest Noted

Declaring he sensed a "singular lack of interest" in foreign affairs among the people, Rayburn set out to stir some up.

"We sit on a seething volcano," he said, "while the White House and State Department have still to produce a single new effective contribution toward world peace."

The Eisenhower administration, Rayburn said, has "played the dangerous game of tenuous military alliances" and "stamped fear upon our friends by its heavy overemphasis on instruments of arms rather than instruments of peace."

He said:

"The problems of the world are not going to be solved by bluffing, or by diplomatic tricks, or by public rebuffs to leaders we need as Allies in the world today.

"What is required is patience and slow and painful negotiation toward carefully thought-out objectives. What is needed is a return to the policies which a few short years ago had made America the leader of the free peoples."

Feels Spirit Of Unity

Rayburn, asserting he felt a spirit of unity and victory in the air here, said "only the Democratic party has the courage and the experience to restore this republic once again to its rightful place in world affairs."

"The Republican secretary of state seems proud of the fact," he said, "that on at least three occasions that we know about, he has taken this country to the brink of war, without the knowledge or consent of the Congress and the people."

Rayburn said "the end result of four years of Republican mishandling of our foreign affairs is such that we have fewer friends than ever before, and we have made enemies of many that were our friends and wellwishers."

Search For Brink's Jury Again Futile

BOSTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—A list of 101 veniremen and women was quickly exhausted again today without seating a single juror to try eight men accused of the $1,218,211 robbery of Brink's Inc., six years ago.

This brought to 600 the number thus far called of a venire of 2,000, not one of whom was placed in the jury box.

Truman Against Adlai Because He "Can't Win"

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Former President Truman said today he opposes Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination because "I don't think he can win" the election in November.

Truman said, on the other hand, "I think Averell Harriman can" win.

Truman came out for Harriman last Saturday without mentioning Stevenson's name. He named him today, saying:

"I don't think Stevenson can win a single state in addition to those he carried in 1952.

Will Help Adlai If Nominated

"But if he's nominated, I'll support him and try to help him carry some other states.

"I'm trying my best to keep him from getting the nomination."

The Stevenson camp reported meanwhile it does not believe the Truman opposition to their candidate will have any effect on his prospects of winning the nomination.

To a question based on this point, Stevenson manager James Finnegan said:

"I do not. I think the delegates have definitely decided that Stevenson is their one hope of beating Eisenhower this year and have decided to cast their votes for him."

Truman To Meet Press

Truman told newsmen he would elaborate on his position at a news conference he has set for 10 a.m. tomorrow.

In a brief interview this afternoon, Truman repeatedly said he decided to oppose Stevenson because, "I don't think he can win."

Truman's decision to say publicly that he is doing his best to stop Stevenson came as his associates reported progress with his "Stop Stevenson" movement.

'Rough' Campaign Forecast By Hall

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee said today the keynote speech of Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee indicated a "rough" political campaign.

"We'll meet it," Hall told a press conference.

Hall said Gov. Clement, in last night's keynote speech to the Democratic convention in Chicago spoke "half truths, distortions . . . and some outright falsehoods."

"It is apparent that while Harry Truman may not control the selection of his party candidate he certainly is setting the tone of the convention and the campaign to follow."

Puerto Rico Hit Hard

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 14 (AP)—Official government estimates indicated today the damage from Hurricane Betsy may pass the 10-million-dollar mark. Four persons were killed.

'Betsy' Curving Away From U.S.

New Hurricane May Be Developing

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 14 (AP)—Hurricane Betsy, 190 miles east of Fort Pierce, Fla., at 8 p. m. tonight, was holding to a path that promises to keep her 120-mile winds away from the U. S. coast.

Weathermen said the small, intense storm is expected to hold to its northwesterly course for the next 12 hours and move at nine miles an hour. After that it may swing home northerly.

"New England has nothing to worry about from this storm," said Gordon Dunn, chief of the Miami Weather Bureau.

"This trend continues to decrease the possibility of the hurricane center reaching the Florida coast," the Weather Bureau said.

New Disturbance Reported

"However, all interests along the South Atlantic Coast should keep in touch with future bulletins and advisories, and small craft north of Vero Beach, Fla., should remain in port."

The Weather Bureau, however, reported a new "area of suspicion" has been found far out in the tropical Atlantic, in about the same area that spawned Betsy six days ago.

They said the area, 800 to 1,000 miles east of Puerto Rico, so far amounts to surface winds of some 35 miles an hour. Ships in the area were asked to file reports on the weather they encountered.

Showers In Florida

Betsy, meanwhile, was roughly parallelling the Florida coast but was staying well out at sea. The only effects felt in Florida were light showers.

All hurricane warnings on the Florida coast have been lowered. But a hurricane watch — advising residents to keep informed on the storm's movement — was in effect from Vero Beach, Fla., to Brunswick, Ga.

There were indications of a still more northerly turn and if this happens, Dunn said the storm, with top winds of 120 m.p.h., may not strike anywhere on the U.S. mainland.

Martha Raye Ill From Overdose Of Sleeping Pills

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 14 (AP)—An overdose of sleeping pills sent Martha Raye, 39, comedienne and television actress, to a hospital today in what her personal physician described as "critical" condition.

Dr. Ralph Robbins said Miss Raye had been despondent for the past week and had taken about 20 sleeping pills.

The actress was found unconscious on the floor of her bedroom at 3 a.m., half an hour after she had come home. A Negro maid said she found Miss Raye lying beside an empty bottle of pills.

The maid said she went in to investigate after waiting up for Miss Raye to come home and she hadn't called on retiring.

War Ace Killed In Auto Crash

MILDENHALL, England, Aug. 14 (AP)—Col. David C. Schilling, 37, a U.S. Air Force ace of World War II, was killed in a car crash tonight.

Schilling shot down 23 German planes and destroyed 10 others.

Shilling's car apparently went into a skid and hurtled into a bridge three miles south of this big U. S. Air Force base. Police said he was thrown from the car and died at once. The car broke in two.

In World War II he commanded the 56th Fighter Group of the 8th Air Force. His group downed 804 planes.

He held numerous decorations, including the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal.

On Oct. 23, 1951, President Truman presented him the Harmon International Air Trophy. He was picked for the award by an international committee that considered him the outstanding flier of the year. At that time he was commanding officer of the 31st Fighter Wing at Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Ga.

About a year before, on Sept. 22, 1950, he made the first nonstop transatlantic jet flight. He flew an Air Force Republic F84 Thunderjet from Manston, England, to Limestone, Maine, with three refuelings in the air from tanker planes.

Convention Program

Showdown Near On Civil Rights Platform Plank

Dixie delegates, striving for a party racial stand the South "can live with," kept their state groups largely unpledged or behind favorite son candidates for the presidential nomination.

The South's refusal so far to choose between the two leading contenders, Adlai Stevenson and Averell Harriman, is frankly intended to give it bargaining position on the drafting of a civil rights plank for the platform.

But Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, who advocates a strong party stand for racial equality and recognition of the Supreme Court decision on school desegregation, sounded a note of alarm.

Possible Deadlock Seen

He said unless "liberal forces" consolidate, the party nomination could be determined by a minority bloc. He said the convention was "drifting dangerously" with increasing possibility of "a deadlock with unforseeable results."

Turning to other subjects, the platform drafters produced another plank modifying the Democratic party's traditional stand for free trade. It called for administration of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act to "protect legitimate American interests against unwarranted destruction of their domestic market."

The 17-member Platform Drafting Committee has been saving the civil rights issue for its last item of business. Party leaders arranged this in hopes of a compromise that would avoid an open convention fight and jeopardize party unity in November.

Business, Labor Planks

The drafting group meanwhile completed its business policy and labor planks.

The first accuses the Republican party of being "an instrument of special privilege" and says that President Eisenhower's administration has allowed giant corporations to "dominate our economy."

It pledges stricter enforcement of antitrust laws to curb monopolies and help for small and independent business, including tax and credit aid.

The labor plank draft repeats the Democrats' 1952 pledge to work for full repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and pledges to write a new labor relations law based on "past experience" and the former Wagner Act.

Lausche Says He Will Not Go For Harriman

New Jersey Leader Predicts State Will Support Stevenson

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—Signs that Adlai Stevenson was picking up some speed in his drive toward the presidential nomination appeared tonight as the Democratic party moved into the fourth session of its national convention.

Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio declared he won't go for Gov. Averell Harriman, Stevenson's chief rival, and a potent New Jersey leader predicted most of that state's 36 votes would plump for Stevenson.

Former President Truman, plugging away for Harriman, said he's doing so because he does not think Stevenson could win the presidency in the November election showdown.

Stevenson had nothing to say about this remark, but his aides shrugged it off as altogether unlikely to affect the convention.

Gov. Lausche, after a visit with Truman, was asked if he would back Harriman, the man the ex-President says is "best qualified."

Lausche Favorite Son

Lausche, a favorite son candidate with about 54 of Ohio's 58 votes behind him, said flatly he won't accept a vice presidential nomination. He has indicated he expects to keep his favorite son candidacy alive for several ballots.

However, former Sen. James W. Huffman, an Ohio delegate, said a majority of the state's vote will go to Stevenson as soon as released by Lausche.

Other tidings of welcome import to Stevenson camp came from within the New Jersey delegation. Dennis Carey, Essex County leader, predicted most of the state's votes would be found in the Stevenson column on the first ballot. He said Gov. Robert B. Meyner favors Stevenson over Harriman and the New Jersey group will go along with the governor. Previous reports have said Meyner dallied with the idea of becoming a favorite son candidate on the initial ballot.

Adlai Gets Wisconsin Support

In the Wisconsin delegation, Stevenson drew first blood in his tussle with Harriman. The 56 Badger State delegates, who have 28 votes, are uncommitted because of the withdrawal of Sen. Estes Kefauver from the race. They had been pledged to the Tennessee senator.

At the conclusion of a three-hour meeting the delegates took part in an informal poll on their choice of a presidential nominee.

The vote, which is not binding, showed:

Cafe Blast Fatal To 15 Is Probed

MONTICELLO, Utah, Aug. 14 (AP)—Officials of this southeastern Utah town called today for state experts to decide what caused a savage explosion that splintered a jammed cafe, killing 15 patrons.

At least 25 persons were injured.

The blast occurred last night in the Lariat Cafe, a year-old brick and cinderblock building. Fifty or more tourists, truckers, construction workers and townspeople had crowded the place at the dinner hour.

Suddenly there was what one victim called "a going-up feeling" and another described as "like pressure all around you."

Ceiling and walls vanished as diners were flung into the yard. Then the roof crashed down. The wreckage did not burn.

Only the rectangular cafe sign, jutting from its standard like a distress signal, stood over the spot today.

Gary To Put Harriman's Name Before Convention

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Averell Harriman today announced that Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma would make the speech nominating him for the presidency at the Democratic National Convention.

He noted that Gary had been the first governor to come out for him for president. That was last December.

In making the announcement, the New York governor scoffed at opposition reports his campaign was dragging. He contended that on the contrary it was picking up steam.

Harriman also discounted a new appeal by ex-candidate Estes Kefauver to his followers urging them to support Adlai Stevenson, the front runner.

"When the smoke has cleared away, I think you will find most of the Kefauver delegates turning to me," Harriman said.

He said that "by and large" the Kefauver delegates supported the Tennessee senator because they favored liberal principles "they thought he was for." Harriman said he himself was getting their support because he favored such principles.

To a question whether his campaign was losing momentum, Harriman said "no," that he was getting "more and more" pledges of support.

He said former President Truman's endorsement of him as a fighting, well qualified candidate in the liberal tradition made a number of delegates "stop and think."

Harriman predicted many of them, after discharging pledges to other candidates on the first or second ballot, will vote for him.

Man Held For Cashing In On Adolph Hitler Legend

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 14 (AP)—The fantastic story of a man who kept the legend of Adolph Hitler alive in the mountains of Kentucky was revealed here today.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Henry J. Cook said a 61-year-old part-time preacher, an unemployed Negro miner, had admitted posing as Hitler in letters.

Cook said Will H. Johnson had obtained thousands of dollars to aid a "new revolt," presumably by persons who admired the policies of the former German dictator.

Cook said Johnson was charged with using the mails to defraud and received an estimated $10,000 to $15,000 in contributions since 1946.

Cook said investigation of the case began after more than 100 letters concerning the "new revolt" were handed to federal agents following the death of a former U.S. Army officer of German descent.

Cook said the idea for the scheme apparently arose from newspaper stories circulated in the Middlesboro area in 1946.

The stories speculated that Hitler was alive and might be hiding out either in Argentina or the southeastern Kentucky mountains.

Name Envoy To Egypt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles left for London and a new ambassador to Egypt was named today as the United States sought a peaceful solution to the Suez Canal crisis.

Dulles, before boarding an Air Force plane for the trip, said "we can be hopeful of achieving positive results" in the 22-nation London talks on the Suez situation.

He conferred earlier with President Eisenhower and reported they agreed there are "a good many formulas" for establishing international control of the canal.

Just after Dulles' departure, the President announced career diplomat Raymond A. Hare, 55, director general of the foreign service, had been named ambassador to Egypt. It is a recess appointment, which must be confirmed by the Senate after Congress convenes in January.

Hare said he did not plan to participate in the London conference and his departure date for Cairo depended on how soon he could clear his desk here.

"This trend continues to decrease the possibility of the hurricane center reaching the Florida coast," the Weather Bureau said.

New Disturbance Reported

"However, all interests along the South Atlantic Coast should keep in touch with future bulletins and advisories, and small craft north of Vero Beach, Fla., should remain in port."

The Weather Bureau, however, reported a new "area of suspicion" has been found far out in the tropical Atlantic, in about the same area that spawned Betsy six days ago.

They said the area, 800 to 1,000 miles east of Puerto Rico, so far amounts to surface winds of some 35 miles an hour. Ships in the area were asked to file reports on the weather they encountered.

Showers In Florida

Betsy, meanwhile, was roughly parallelling the Florida coast but was staying well out at sea. The only effects felt in Florida were light showers.

All hurricane warnings on the Florida coast have been lowered. But a hurricane watch — advising residents to keep informed on the storm's movement — was in effect from Vero Beach, Fla., to Brunswick, Ga.

There were indications of a still more northerly turn and if this happens, Dunn said the storm, with top winds of 120 m.p.h., may not strike anywhere on the U.S. mainland.

Martha Raye Ill From Overdose Of Sleeping Pills

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 14 (AP)—An overdose of sleeping pills sent Martha Raye, 39, comedienne and television actress, to a hospital today in what her personal physician described as "critical" condition.

Dr. Ralph Robbins said Miss Raye had been despondent for the past week and had taken about 20 sleeping pills.

The actress was found unconscious on the floor of her bedroom at 3 a.m., half an hour after she had come home. A Negro maid said she found Miss Raye lying beside an empty bottle of pills.

The maid said she went in to investigate after waiting up for Miss Raye to come home and she hadn't called on retiring.

War Ace Killed In Auto Crash

MILDENHALL, England, Aug. 14 (AP)—Col. David C. Schilling, 37, a U.S. Air Force ace of World War II, was killed in a car crash tonight.

Schilling shot down 23 German planes and destroyed 10 others.

Shilling's car apparently went into a skid and hurtled into a bridge three miles south of this big U. S. Air Force base. Police said he was thrown from the car and died at once. The car broke in two.

In World War II he commanded the 56th Fighter Group of the 8th Air Force. His group downed 804 planes.

He held numerous decorations, including the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal.

On Oct. 23, 1951, President Truman presented him the Harmon International Air Trophy. He was picked for the award by an international committee that considered him the outstanding flier of the year. At that time he was commanding officer of the 31st Fighter Wing at Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Ga.

About a year before, on Sept. 22, 1950, he made the first nonstop transatlantic jet flight. He flew an Air Force Republic F84 Thunderjet from Manston, England, to Limestone, Maine, with three refuelings in the air from tanker planes.

Convention Program

Showdown Near On Civil Rights Platform Plank

Dixie delegates, striving for a party racial stand the South "can live with," kept their state groups largely unpledged or behind favorite son candidates for the presidential nomination.

The South's refusal so far to choose between the two leading contenders, Adlai Stevenson and Averell Harriman, is frankly intended to give it bargaining position on the drafting of a civil rights plank for the platform.

But Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, who advocates a strong party stand for racial equality and recognition of the Supreme Court decision on school desegregation, sounded a note of alarm.

Possible Deadlock Seen

He said unless "liberal forces" consolidate, the party nomination could be determined by a minority bloc. He said the convention was "drifting dangerously" with increasing possibility of "a deadlock with unforseeable results."

Turning to other subjects, the platform drafters produced another plank modifying the Democratic party's traditional stand for free trade. It called for administration of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act to "protect legitimate American interests against unwarranted destruction of their domestic market."

The 17-member Platform Drafting Committee has been saving the civil rights issue for its last item of business. Party leaders arranged this in hopes of a compromise that would avoid an open convention fight and jeopardize party unity in November.

Business, Labor Planks

The drafting group meanwhile completed its business policy and labor planks.

The first accuses the Republican party of being "an instrument of special privilege" and says that President Eisenhower's administration has allowed giant corporations to "dominate our economy."

It pledges stricter enforcement of antitrust laws to curb monopolies and help for small and independent business, including tax and credit aid.

The labor plank draft repeats the Democrats' 1952 pledge to work for full repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and pledges to write a new labor relations law based on "past experience" and the former Wagner Act.

Lausche Says He Will Not Go For Harriman

New Jersey Leader Predicts State Will Support Stevenson

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—Signs that Adlai Stevenson was picking up some speed in his drive toward the presidential nomination appeared tonight as the Democratic party moved into the fourth session of its national convention.

Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio declared he won't go for Gov. Averell Harriman, Stevenson's chief rival, and a potent New Jersey leader predicted most of that state's 36 votes would plump for Stevenson.

Former President Truman, plugging away for Harriman, said he's doing so because he does not think Stevenson could win the presidency in the November election showdown.

Stevenson had nothing to say about this remark, but his aides shrugged it off as altogether unlikely to affect the convention.

Gov. Lausche, after a visit with Truman, was asked if he would back Harriman, the man the ex-President says is "best qualified."

Lausche Favorite Son

Lausche, a favorite son candidate with about 54 of Ohio's 58 votes behind him, said flatly he won't accept a vice presidential nomination. He has indicated he expects to keep his favorite son candidacy alive for several ballots.

However, former Sen. James W. Huffman, an Ohio delegate, said a majority of the state's vote will go to Stevenson as soon as released by Lausche.

Other tidings of welcome import to Stevenson camp came from within the New Jersey delegation. Dennis Carey, Essex County leader, predicted most of the state's votes would be found in the Stevenson column on the first ballot. He said Gov. Robert B. Meyner favors Stevenson over Harriman and the New Jersey group will go along with the governor. Previous reports have said Meyner dallied with the idea of becoming a favorite son candidate on the initial ballot.

Adlai Gets Wisconsin Support

In the Wisconsin delegation, Stevenson drew first blood in his tussle with Harriman. The 56 Badger State delegates, who have 28 votes, are uncommitted because of the withdrawal of Sen. Estes Kefauver from the race. They had been pledged to the Tennessee senator.

At the conclusion of a three-hour meeting the delegates took part in an informal poll on their choice of a presidential nominee.

Cafe Blast Fatal To 15 Is Probed

MONTICELLO, Utah, Aug. 14 (AP)—Officials of this southeastern Utah town called today for state experts to decide what caused a savage explosion that splintered a jammed cafe, killing 15 patrons.

At least 25 persons were injured.

The blast occurred last night in the Lariat Cafe, a year-old brick and cinderblock building. Fifty or more tourists, truckers, construction workers and townspeople had crowded the place at the dinner hour.

Suddenly there was what one victim called "a going-up feeling" and another described as "like pressure all around you."

Ceiling and walls vanished as diners were flung into the yard. Then the roof crashed down. The wreckage did not burn.

Only the rectangular cafe sign, jutting from its standard like a distress signal, stood over the spot today.

Gary To Put Harriman's Name Before Convention

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Averell Harriman today announced that Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma would make the speech nominating him for the presidency at the Democratic National Convention.

He noted that Gary had been the first governor to come out for him for president. That was last December.

In making the announcement, the New York governor scoffed at opposition reports his campaign was dragging. He contended that on the contrary it was picking up steam.

Harriman also discounted a new appeal by ex-candidate Estes Kefauver to his followers urging them to support Adlai Stevenson, the front runner.

"When the smoke has cleared away, I think you will find most of the Kefauver delegates turning to me," Harriman said.

He said that "by and large" the Kefauver delegates supported the Tennessee senator because they favored liberal principles "they thought he was for." Harriman said he himself was getting their support because he favored such principles.

To a question whether his campaign was losing momentum, Harriman said "no," that he was getting "more and more" pledges of support.

He said former President Truman's endorsement of him as a fighting, well qualified candidate in the liberal tradition made a number of delegates "stop and think."

Harriman predicted many of them, after discharging pledges to other candidates on the first or second ballot, will vote for him.

Man Held For Cashing In On Adolph Hitler Legend

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 14 (AP)—The fantastic story of a man who kept the legend of Adolph Hitler alive in the mountains of Kentucky was revealed here today.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Henry J. Cook said a 61-year-old part-time preacher, an unemployed Negro miner, had admitted posing as Hitler in letters.

Cook said Will H. Johnson had obtained thousands of dollars to aid a "new revolt," presumably by persons who admired the policies of the former German dictator.

Cook said Johnson was charged with using the mails to defraud and received an estimated $10,000 to $15,000 in contributions since 1946.

Cook said investigation of the case began after more than 100 letters concerning the "new revolt" were handed to federal agents following the death of a former U.S. Army officer of German descent.

Cook said the idea for the scheme apparently arose from newspaper stories circulated in the Middlesboro area in 1946.

The stories speculated that Hitler was alive and might be hiding out either in Argentina or the southeastern Kentucky mountains.

The Names Hare Envoy To Egypt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles left for London and a new ambassador to Egypt was named today as the United States sought a peaceful solution to the Suez Canal crisis.

Dulles, before boarding an Air Force plane for the trip, said "we can be hopeful of achieving positive results" in the 22-nation London talks on the Suez situation.

He conferred earlier with President Eisenhower and reported they agreed there are "a good many formulas" for establishing international control of the canal.

Just after Dulles' departure, the President announced career diplomat Raymond A. Hare, 55, director general of the foreign service, had been named ambassador to Egypt. It is a recess appointment, which must be confirmed by the Senate after Congress convenes in January.

He said he did not plan to participate in the London conference and his departure date for it depended on how soon he could clear his desk here.

Stevenson Backers In State Delegation Open Counterattack

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore and Michael J. Birmingham, the outgoing and incoming national committeemen, respectively, visited Adlai Stevenson and afterward predicted he would have Maryland's 18 votes.

If Stevenson's schedule permits, he will personally visit and talk with the entire delegation tomorrow.

The Stevenson counterattacks were made after a sudden and unexpected Harriman push was launched Sunday upon arrival of the bulk of the delegation. A great majority of them came expecting to vote for Stevenson, although they never had been recorded.

Carrying the ball for Harriman was Philip Dorsey, a leader in the control group that picked the delegates. Almost everybody believed George P. Mahoney, to whom practically all of the delegates had pledged allegiance, was behind Dorsey. Mahoney denied Dorsey was fronting for him.

Among those going to see Stevenson with D'Alesandro and Birmingham were Rep. Richard E. Lankford and Hamilton P. Fox.

Lankford is running for re-election in the Fifth District (Southern Maryland) and Fox is seeking the House seat in the First (Eastern Shore). Both districts are considered Southern style in their feelings.

Fox expressed the concern of the county representatives about Harriman's possible lack of appeal to voters in their areas because of his forthright views on strong guarantees of civil rights. Stevenson is depicted as more of a "middle of the roader."

"I've got enough of a load to carry in the election without carrying Harriman," said Fox. He is trying to unseat Edward T. Miller, a Republican seeking his sixth straight term.

Also attending the half-hour conference with Stevenson were Joseph Tydings, whose father, Millard, is seeking to regain his Senate seat from Republican John Marshall Butler, and Dave Preller, president of the Maryland Young Democrats.

While it is felt that Maryland's 18 votes are safe for Stevenson once again, a new element of balloting strategy may crop up at tomorrow's caucus (11 a.m.).

There was some talk that if it is evident Stevenson isn't going to win the nomination on the first ballot, that Maryland should cast its votes for some dark horse like Sen. Symington of Missouri or Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. The Maryland votes then would be tossed in when the time is considered opportune for a Stevenson triumph.

The thought behind this is that Maryland's votes would stand out more then as having been among the key numbers.

Western Union Plans To Boost Its Press Rates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP) — Western Union Telegraph Co., today notified the Federal Communications Commission its plans to increase press telegraph rates 8 22 per cent, effective Sept. 14.

The company estimated the hike would increase its revenues by $268,000 a year from this type of business, provided there is no shrinkage in press patronage as a result of the increase.

The notification of plans for higher press rates is a part of an over-all rate revision program by Western Union. It is designed to produce additional revenues of around 10 million dollars annually, if made effective for both interstate and intrastate traffic.

The company in late June filed proposed hikes in the charges for all of its services except press. These ranged from 10 to 25 per cent and included a projected increase of about 11.3 per cent in the rates for interstate public telegraph. The company estimated these changes, which it sought to make effective through 30-day notice, would yield additional revenue of $11,400,000 a year.

However, the FCC issued a suspension order and announced public hearings would be required during September. This brought from Western Union a revised proposal to hold the increase on interstate public telegrams to 9.6 per cent, and the FCC canceled the proposed hearings. The FCC announced it would permit these revisions, estimated to increase public billings by about $9,657,000 a year.

man 7, Kefauver 7, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri 1, passing 11, and absent 5.

Those who voted for Kefauver said they were doing so in the hope he would be nominated despite his withdrawal from the race.

During this second day of the convention, Stevenson's hopes for a lighting political coup which would snare the nomination on the first ballot appeared to go glimmering.

Harriman's drive for the big prize, plus holding operations by a number of favorite sons, appeared likely to force two or more ballots.

Whether Stevenson could be stopped for keeps was a much different question. The former Illinois governor still had a far more impressive list of votes committed to him than Harriman or any of the favorite sons.

Campaigns of both the Stevenson and Harriman camps sputtered along uncertainly, with neither crunching out major gains. It wasn't because the two contenders weren't trying. They were as busy as ever tugging at sleeves of delegates and pouncing on anybody showing any sign at all of leaning one way or the other.

But some complete delegations, mainly in the South, clung to strategic positions astride the fence.

Former President Harry S. Truman, battling for Harriman's cause with all his influence and prestige, said today that "I'm trying my best" to keep Stevenson from being nominated because "I don't think he can win" the November election. He said he believes Harriman can.

Stevenson's campaign manager, James Finnegan, told newsmen that "I do not" think Truman's opposition will affect Stevenson's chances for capturing the nomination.

Butler Demands CBS Show Film

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System said today it never had committed itself to televise a film shown at the Democratic convention, but Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler disagreed.

The disputestarted with Butler's charge at last night's convention session that CBS had reneged on a commitment to carry the film, depicting the Democratic party's history, on its TV network.

CBS President Frank Stanton sent a telegram to Butler today saying "Neither I nor anyone else at CBS has ever committed CBS to carry the film. There has been no agreement at any time on the subject."

Butler, in turn, dispatched a telgram to Stanton. In it he said he was making "formal demand" that CBS show the complete film on the same number of TV and radio stations that carried the other convention proceedings last night.

Railroad Unions Take Strike Vote

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Members of 11 unions of railroad non-operating employes are voting on whether to strike for a wage increase, George E. Leighty, chairman of the unions' joint negotiating committee, said today.

Some 900,000 workers are represented by the unions. They are clerks, telegraphers and others who do not actually operate trains. The vote is expected to be completed by Sept. 7.

Leighty, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, said the strike vote is being taken because the railroads asked the non-operating employes to take a 6½ cent an hour pay cut.

The unions are asking a 25 cent an hour raise. Leighty said a 14½ cent an hour raise granted the unions in December 1955 was the first increase in three years for non-operating personnel.

Midget Guided Missile Unveiled

The Dart was specifically designed to track and kill enemy tanks.

It will be produced in quantity by the Utica-Bend Corp. Utica, Mich., a subsidiary of Curtiss-Wright Corp. The initial production contract authorized by the Army will run to about $16,565,000.

Specific performance information about the Dart remains on the secret list at the Pentagon, but it is known the new missile is highly accurate.

Eisenhower, Dewey To Discuss Politics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York, will meet tomorrow to talk politics. They may discuss the Republican vice presidential situation.

So far as is known, the session at the White House will be the first meeting of Eisenhower and Dewey since Harold E. Stassen launched a drive last month to dump Vice President Nixon from the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket.

FHA Down Payment Terms Are Relaxed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) announced today that the same low down payment terms applying to new houses are available to buyers of older homes.

The minimum down payment on a home to be occupied by the borrower, under FHA mortgage insurance, is now 7 per cent of the first $9,000 of value plus 27 per cent of the value above $9,000.

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP) — Britain tonight tightened its countermeasures in the Suez Canal dispute by restricting all aircraft exports, including spare parts, to Egypt.

Work Is Rushed On Radar Tower

BOSTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The first of three permanent legs of a huge radar tower was driven into the ocean bottom off Nantucket Island today as work was rushed under threat of Hurricane Betsy, now roaring towards the Florida coast.

With reports from Florida indicating the hurricane had veered slightly northward, tower officials were still considering plans to tow the 7,000-ton structure to safety or evacuate personnel if necessary.

The tower now rests slightly above the water on nine temporary legs. If the hurricane danger increases officials can jack up the legs and tow the floating tower to the safety of Narragansett Bay 100 miles away. No nearer harbor could accomodate the huge "island."

The tower, second of a projected series of Air Force radar warning islands along the Atlantic Coast, was towed from its construction site in Portland, Maine, 180 miles away last week. It is located on Nantucket Shoals about 45 miles southeast of the once famous whaling island.

Martin, Lewis Sue NBC For 3 Million

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14 (AP) — The off-and-on feuding comedians, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, have filed a federal court suit for three million dollars against the National Broadcasting Co. it was revealed today.

Railroad Unions Take Strike Vote

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Members of 11 unions of railroad non-operating employes are voting on whether to strike for a wage increase, George E. Leighty, chairman of the unions' joint negotiating committee, said today.

Some 900,000 workers are represented by the unions. They are clerks, telegraphers and others who do not actually operate trains. The vote is expected to be completed by Sept. 7.

Leighty, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, said the strike vote is being taken because the railroads asked the non-operating employes to take a 6½ cent an hour pay cut.

The unions are asking a 25 cent an hour raise. Leighty said a 14½ cent an hour raise granted the unions in December 1955 was the first increase in three years for non-operating personnel.

Midget Guided Missile Unveiled

The Dart was specifically designed to track and kill enemy tanks.

It will be produced in quantity by the Utica-Bend Corp. Utica, Mich., a subsidiary of Curtiss-Wright Corp. The initial production contract authorized by the Army will run to about $16,565,000.

Specific performance information about the Dart remains on the secret list at the Pentagon, but it is known the new missile is highly accurate.

Eisenhower, Dewey To Discuss Politics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York, will meet tomorrow to talk politics. They may discuss the Republican vice presidential situation.

So far as is known, the session at the White House will be the first meeting of Eisenhower and Dewey since Harold E. Stassen launched a drive last month to dump Vice President Nixon from the No. 2 spot on the GOP ticket.

FHA Down Payment Terms Are Relaxed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) announced today that the same low down payment terms applying to new houses are available to buyers of older homes.

The minimum down payment on a home to be occupied by the borrower, under FHA mortgage insurance, is now 7 per cent of the first $9,000 of value plus 27 per cent of the value above $9,000.

British Measure

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP) — Britain tonight tightened its countermeasures in the Suez Canal dispute by restricting all aircraft exports, including spare parts, to Egypt.

Work Is Rushed On Radar Tower

BOSTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The first of three permanent legs of a huge radar tower was driven into the ocean bottom off Nantucket Island today as work was rushed under threat of Hurricane Betsy, now roaring towards the Florida coast.

With reports from Florida indicating the hurricane had veered slightly northward, tower officials were still considering plans to tow the 7,000-ton structure to safety or evacuate personnel if necessary.

The tower now rests slightly above the water on nine temporary legs. If the hurricane danger increases officials can jack up the legs and tow the floating tower to the safety of Narragansett Bay 100 miles away. No nearer harbor could accomodate the huge "island."

The tower, second of a projected series of Air Force radar warning islands along the Atlantic Coast, was towed from its construction site in Portland, Maine, 180 miles away last week. It is located on Nantucket Shoals about 45 miles southeast of the once famous whaling island.

Martin, Lewis Sue NBC For 3 Million

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14 (AP) — The off-and-on feuding comedians, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, have filed a federal court suit for three million dollars against the National Broadcasting Co. it was revealed today.

York Pictures Corp., of which the comics are part owners, filed the suit alleging breach of contract. The complaint stated NBC broke off, after five months, a contract calling for four Martin and Lewis TV programs annually for five years, at a price of $250,000 per program.

The average price of a pound loaf of white bread was 70 per cent more in 1955 than 1946.

Half-Tailed Elephant Tried, Executed

KAMPALA, Uganda, Aug. 14 (AP)—This is the sad, sad story of a playful elephant with a trunk full of trouble and only half a tail.

He used to roam happily through the African bush country playing practical jokes. One man told of being accosted in his canoe and toppled as he fished in a shallow river. Four others told of being chased up trees outside their native village.

The elephant with half a tail just wanted to be friends, they thought. Still, no one really trusted him.

When the district magistrate strolled into the village the other day, the chief called for justice. Nobody could rest easily, the chief insisted.

Just 200 yards away, grazing happily, was the elephant, easily identified by his half a tail. That half a tail, the villagers said, probably had been severed in some practical joke that backfired. Looking at him, the villagers declared they wanted no more of his jokes.

The magistrate consulted his book of rules and set up a Formal Court of Summary Jurisdiction behind the chief's hut. The whole village assembled and gave testimony. The defendant just grazed peacefully.

The magistrate found him guilty and sentenced him to death.

The elephant got the idea when a game warden, accompanying the magistrate, moved toward him with a rifle at the ready. The elephant lost his sense of humor and charged. The warden fired and the elephant fell dead.

But he didn't die without honor. A report filed here recently by the warden of Queen Elizabeth National Park said the elephant with half a tail made legal history.

He was the first elephant ever tried by a British colonial court.

Heroic Japanese Girl To Wed British Lawyer

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP)—A Malayan girl who defied Japanese torturers during the war plans to marry William Spalding, 26-year-old British lawyer, next month.

The girl, Dawn Kathigasu, 19, is studying medicine here. When she was 6, Japanese military police strung her from a tree over a fire, trying to force her mother to reveal secrets on the Malayan resistance movement.

Dawn shouted to her mother not to speak. A senior officer intervened and saved the girl. She and her mother were cited for bravery by the British and Malayan governments.

Utah's Sipapu arch, a natural bridge as long as a city block, takes its name from a Hopi Indian phrase meaning "Entrance to the Underworld," the National Geographic Society says.

Definition Of Humor

BORDIGHERA, Italy, Aug. 14 (AP)—What's humor?

Here is the answer by Antonio Antonizzi of Italy, judged winner by an international jury in a humor salon:

Maryland Convention Delegates Need Field Glasses

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Maryland delegates attending the first session of the Democratic National Convention yesterday moaned loud and long when they found where they were assigned to sit in the International Amphitheater.

Maryland's section is in the center section, but just two rows from the rear of the big auditorium. The television, newsreel platform in the middle of the convention floor obstructs their view of the rostrum.

Even without the platform, the delegates are so far back they'd need field glasses to see the speakers.

Maryland is flanked by delegations from Alaska and Nevada, with State of Washington delegates just ahead of them. Only Wyoming Democrats buffer the Marylanders in the rear from the main entrance.

Vocke Road Armory Site Approved By County Board

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday announced that they have notified the Maryland Maryland Military District headquarters in Baltimore that approval of a site on Vocke Road for a $200,000 Army Reserve armory is being given by the county.

Members of the board were told several days ago that in the event prompt approval for the project was not received the money allotted for the armory here would be reallocated to some other point.

All three commissioners signed the letter of approval which was sent to Major Kenneth Wright, post engineer of the Maryland Military District.

When the project was first announced several weeks ago the LaVale Century Club opposed it. At a meeting last Monday night the LaVale Civic Improvement Association board of governors raised no objection to the armory work.

William G. Barger, who is a major in one of the local Army Reserve units, explained the plans for the new building and told how it would be operated at the LaVale group's meeting.

He said it will be similar to the one constructed in Frostburg and will be a 200-man organization. The armory will be built facing Vocke Road adjacent to the State Roads Commission headquarters.

In the armory will be a rifle range, which can be operated without any noise being heard outside of the structure, Barger said. The armory cannot be used for any commercial enterprises but will be available for public gatherings, he added.

Driver Given Stiff Term On Motor Counts

A 35-year-old local man with a long record of motor vehicle violations was sentenced yesterday to two years and 30 days in the Maryland House of Correction.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason sentenced Leonard Wayne Albright, 46 Bedford Street, after he entered guilty pleas to four serious motor violations.

Albright was arrested Monday at 9:30 p. m. after he was involved in an accident at the intersection of Union Street and Altamont Terrace. He was arrested by Officers Carl Williams, Gordon Hite and Warren G. Brehm.

Sixth Conviction

Albright was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs, reckless driving, driving on a revoked license, and failing to locate and notify the owner after causing property damage.

The man told Magistrate Mason that he had been previously convicted on five separate charges of driving while under the influence, four counts in Maryland and one count in Ohio.

Magistrate Mason sentenced the man to one year in the House of Correction on the charge of driving under the influence, and six months each on the charges of driving on a revoked license and reckless driving. He then sentenced the man to 30 days in the House of Correction for failing to notify the owner after property damage occurred.

Magistrate Mason said Albright was arrested by the local officers after he struck a house, causing approximately $50 damage.

The magistrate said Albright was driving a car owned by Roscoe Hall, 36, of RD 1, Flintstone, who was charged with permitting an unauthorized person to operate his motor vehicle.

Ohio License Revoked

Hall entered a plea of not guilty, but was found guilty by Magistrate Mason and was fined $25, plus $1.4 court cost. He was committed to Allegany County Jail in default of the fine.

Albright told the court that he never owned a Maryland operator's license, and that his Ohio license has been revoked some time ago.

Magistrate Mason noted that Albright's past motor vehicle record was one of the worst that has come up before him in the four years he has been serving as trial magistrate.

Magistrate Mason also observed that the two-year and 30-day sentence is one of the stiffest sentences imposed in the local court.

Garrett Crash Is State's 300th Fatality

The auto fatality early Monday in Garrett County marked the 300th highway death in Maryland for 1956.

Twenty-three-year-old George M. Bott, Jr., an engineer at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, was riding alone when his car crashed near Bloomington, killing him instantly.

Bott came to Allegany County in June from Keene, N. H. He was a 1956 graduate of the University of Maine.

Jury Indicts Four Persons In Wire Theft

Indictments were returned against four Petersburg, W. Va., area residents Monday in a special session of the Pendleton County grand jury in Franklin.

They were charged with stealing approximately 8,000 feet of telephone wire from poles in the Brushy Run section of Pendleton County.

Charged are Alvie Olie Kimble, 32, and his wife, Jean Kimble, 37; Joseph Delmar Swick, 38, and Curtis Alt, 37, all of the Petersburg section.

Cpl. French Armstrong of the Franklin State Police detachment, said that on Tuesday, July 17, the State Police were informed that an active telephone line in the Brushy Run area of Pendleton County belonging to the C. & P. Company, had been cut the previous night. Upon investigation it was found that approximately 4,000 feet of solid copper wire had been clipped from the poles and removed.

Part of the wire was taken from an inactive line that runs from Brushy Run to the Grant County line. Although the line was inactive, the C. & P. Company was planning to install phones in homes along the line and resume the service, said Boyd Hiser, local C. & P. manager. The balance of the wire was taken from the active line in the area.

On the following Wednesday night another 4,000 feet of wire was clipped from the poles and removed.

The wire was later recovered at a junk dealer's in Johnstown, Pa., where it was sold for 26 cents per pound.

Vocke Road Armory Site Approved By County Board

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday announced that they have notified the Maryland Maryland Military District headquarters in Baltimore that approval of a site on Vocke Road for a $200,000 Army Reserve armory is being given by the county.

Members of the board were told several days ago that in the event prompt approval for the project was not received the money allotted for the armory here would be reallocated to some other point.

All three commissioners signed the letter of approval which was sent to Major Kenneth Wright, post engineer of the Maryland Military District.

When the project was first announced several weeks ago the LaVale Century Club opposed it. At a meeting last Monday night the LaVale Civic Improvement Association board of governors raised no objection to the armory work.

William G. Barger, who is a major in one of the local Army Reserve units, explained the plans for the new building and told how it would be operated at the LaVale group's meeting.

He said it will be similar to the one constructed in Frostburg and will be a 200-man organization. The armory will be built facing Vocke Road adjacent to the State Roads Commission headquarters.

In the armory will be a rifle range, which can be operated without any noise being heard outside of the structure, Barger said. The armory cannot be used for any commercial enterprises but will be available for public gatherings, he added.

Driver Given Stiff Term On Motor Counts

A 35-year-old local man with a long record of motor vehicle violations was sentenced yesterday to two years and 30 days in the Maryland House of Correction.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason sentenced Leonard Wayne Albright, 46 Bedford Street, after he entered guilty pleas to four serious motor violations.

Albright was arrested Monday at 9:30 p. m. after he was involved in an accident at the intersection of Union Street and Altamont Terrace. He was arrested by Officers Carl Williams, Gordon Hite and Warren G. Brehm.

Sixth Conviction

Albright was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs, reckless driving, driving on a revoked license, and failing to locate and notify the owner after causing property damage.

The man told Magistrate Mason that he had been previously convicted on five separate charges of driving while under the influence, four counts in Maryland and one count in Ohio.

Magistrate Mason sentenced the man to one year in the House of Correction on the charge of driving under the influence, and six months each on the charges of driving on a revoked license and reckless driving. He then sentenced the man to 30 days in the House of Correction for failing to notify the owner after property damage occurred.

Magistrate Mason said Albright was arrested by the local officers after he struck a house, causing approximately $50 damage.

The magistrate said Albright was driving a car owned by Roscoe Hall, 36, of RD 1, Flintstone, who was charged with permitting an unauthorized person to operate his motor vehicle.

Ohio License Revoked

Hall entered a plea of not guilty, but was found guilty by Magistrate Mason and was fined $25, plus $1.4 court cost. He was committed to Allegany County Jail in default of the fine.

Albright told the court that he never owned a Maryland operator's license, and that his Ohio license has been revoked some time ago.

Magistrate Mason noted that Albright's past motor vehicle record was one of the worst that has come up before him in the four years he has been serving as trial magistrate.

Magistrate Mason also observed that the two-year and 30-day sentence is one of the stiffest sentences imposed in the local court.

Jury Indicts Four Persons In Wire Theft

Indictments were returned against four Petersburg, W. Va., area residents Monday in a special session of the Pendleton County grand jury in Franklin.

They were charged with stealing approximately 8,000 feet of telephone wire from poles in the Brushy Run section of Pendleton County.

Charged are Alvie Olie Kimble, 32, and his wife, Jean Kimble, 37; Joseph Delmar Swick, 38, and Curtis Alt, 37, all of the Petersburg section.

Cpl. French Armstrong of the Franklin State Police detachment, said that on Tuesday, July 17, the State Police were informed that an active telephone line in the Brushy Run area of Pendleton County belonging to the C. & P. Company, had been cut the previous night. Upon investigation it was found that approximately 4,000 feet of solid copper wire had been clipped from the poles and removed.

Part of the wire was taken from an inactive line that runs from Brushy Run to the Grant County line. Although the line was inactive, the C. & P. Company was planning to install phones in homes along the line and resume the service, said Boyd Hiser, local C. & P. manager. The balance of the wire was taken from the active line in the area.

On the following Wednesday night another 4,000 feet of wire was clipped from the poles and removed.

The wire was later recovered at a junk dealer's in Johnstown, Pa., where it was sold for 26 cents per pound.

Area Construction Work Is Hampered By Rainfall

"The worst season for outdoor construction work in my experience."

That is the opinion of the president of one of the largest construction companies in this section. He has been in the business for over 30 years.

William A. Douglas, president of the George F. Hazelwood Company said his crews have been held to three days a week work on earth moving projects since spring.

And August is going right along with five of the previous six months when the total precipitation has been over normal.

So far this month there has been measurable rain or a trace of rain on ten of the 14 days.

The longest dry spell was over the past weekend, Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Cumberland. There were hard scattered showers' in the section Monday, though.

The rainfall so far this month has totaled 2.32 inches. The normal for August here is 3.48 inches.

With the exception of January, all the months this year have had above-normal precipitation.

The list below shows the normal and actual rainfall in 1956.

	Actual	Normal
January	1.01 inches	2.49 inches
February	4.83 "	2.34 "
March	3.26 "	3.00 "
April	3.07 "	2.88 "
May	3.67 "	3.39 "
June	6.47 "	3.88 "
July	5.09 "	3.26 "

The record for this month is as follows: August 1, trace; August 2, .07 inch; August 3, trace; August 4, none; August 5, .33 inch; August 6, 1.65 inches; August 7, trace, August 8, .18 inch; August 9, none; August 10, .03 inch; August 11, 12 and 13, none, and August 14, .11 inch.

In addition to the rainfall, there has been an unusual number of electrical storms this summer.

The lightning has taken its toll of trees, several barns and two homes, in this immediate area.

The forecast for the next two days for Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties calls for some cloudiness and less humid today; and Thursday, fair and continued warm.

Naval Air Veterans Sought For Reserve

A representative of the Naval Air Reserve at Anacostia will be in Cumberland next week to interview naval air veterans on joining a training unit at Anacostia on active duty.

Attorney Pay Discussion Set

A meeting will be held September 6 at 3:30 p.m. at City Hall in Baltimore at which the question of a new salary scale for state's attorneys in the various counties will be discussed.

The meeting has been called by the State's Attorneys Association of Maryland. The discussion will be heard by a sub-committee of the Legislative Council which acts on legislation affecting taxation.

The salary scale recommended by the association is based on population of the various counties. Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Harford counties are in the 50,000 to 100,000 bracket.

The salary scale for the state's attorney of these four counties would be $6,500 annually and $3,000 per year for one assistant. Allegany County currently is paying $4,800 per year for the state's attorney and $4,100 for his assistant.

Notice of the meeting was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. They said they will study the proposal before reaching a decision on whether they favor the new salary scale.

Garrett County does not have an assistant state's attorney. It is in the 50,000 and below section. The state's attorney in Garrett would get $5,000 annually under the proposal. A salary of $2,600 for an assistant is provided, if Garrett would ever have one.

In the four most populous counties, Baltimore, Montgomery, Prince Georges and Anne Arundel the salary for the state's attorney would be $8,000 annually and two assistants at $4,500 each.

Young Demos Plan Meeting Friday

The Young Democrat Club of Allegany County will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the Algonquin Hotel.

Delegates to the state convention in September will be elected and plans for fall activities will be made.

Area Construction Work Is Hampered By Rainfall

"The worst season for outdoor construction work in my experience."

That is the opinion of the president of one of the largest construction companies in this section. He has been in the business for over 30 years.

William A. Douglas, president of the George F. Hazelwood Company said his crews have been held to three days a week work on earth moving projects since spring.

And August is going right along with five of the previous six months when the total precipitation has been over normal.

So far this month there has been measurable rain or a trace of rain on ten of the 14 days.

The longest dry spell was over the past weekend, Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Cumberland. There were hard scattered showers in the section Monday, though.

The rainfall so far this month has totaled 2.32 inches. The normal for August here is 3.48 inches.

With the exception of January, all the months this year have had above-normal precipitation.

The list below shows the normal and actual rainfall in 1956.

	Actual	Normal
January	1.01 inches	2.49 inches
February	4.83 "	2.34 "
March	3.26 "	3.00 "
April	3.07 "	2.88 "
May	3.67 "	3.39 "
June	6.47 "	3.88 "
July	5.09 "	3.26 "

The record for this month is as follows: August 1, trace; August 2, .07 inch; August 3, trace; August 4, none; August 5, .33 inch; August 6, 1.65 inches; August 7, trace, August 8, .18 inch; August 9, none; August 10, .03 inch; August 11, 12 and 13, none, and August 14, .11 inch.

In addition to the rainfall, there has been an unusual number of electrical storms this summer.

The lightning has taken its toll of trees, several barns and two homes, in this immediate area.

The forecast for the next two days for Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties calls for some cloudiness and less humid today; and Thursday, fair and continued warm.

Attorney Pay Discussion Set

A meeting will be held September 6 at 3:30 p.m. at City Hall in Baltimore at which the question of a new salary scale for state's attorneys in the various counties will be discussed.

The meeting has been called by the State's Attorneys Association of Maryland. The discussion will be heard by a sub-committee of the Legislative Council which acts on legislation affecting taxation.

The salary scale recommended by the association is based on population of the various counties. Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Harford counties are in the 50,000 to 100,000 bracket.

The salary scale for the state's attorney of these four counties would be $6,500 annually and $3,000 per year for one assistant. Allegany County currently is paying $4,800 per year for the state's attorney and $4,100 for his assistant.

Notice of the meeting was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. They said they will study the proposal before reaching a decision on whether they favor the new salary scale.

Garrett County does not have an assistant state's attorney. It is in the 50,000 and below section. The state's attorney in Garrett would get $5,000 annually under the proposal. A salary of $2,600 for an assistant is provided, if Garrett would ever have one.

In the four most populous counties, Baltimore, Montgomery, Prince Georges and Anne Arundel the salary for the state's attorney would be $8,000 annually and two assistants at $4,500 each.

Young Demos Plan Meeting Friday

The Young Democrat Club of Allegany County will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the Algonquin Hotel.

Delegates to the state convention in September will be elected and plans for fall activities will be made.

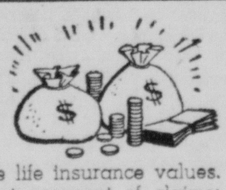
The payoff!



There are many ways to measure life insurance values. Financial stability, service, prompt payment of claims: these are some of the important yardsticks.

Of more than 7½ millions of dollars paid in 1955 death and disability claims, litigation required settlement in but a single one. This remarkable record is second to none in the life field.

In the matter of promptness, too, Woodmen has a superb record. Checks to beneficiaries are usually in the mail within 48 hours after receipt of proofs.

This just, liberal, speedy performance in claim settlements stands out. It is another demonstration of the plus benefits offered by membership in a great Society.

Myers pointed out that the Hagerstown degree team came out 16th in men's Class B competition with a score of 95.80. Burlington, Iowa, Aerie was first with 99.6 per cent, with Rockford, Ill., Aerie second with a score of 99.4 per cent. Some 23 teams were entered from 12 states.

The payoff!

There are many ways to measure life insurance values. Financial stability, service, prompt payment of claims: these are some of the important yardsticks.

Of more than 7½ millions of dollars paid in 1955 death and disability claims, litigation required settlement in but a single one. This remarkable record is second to none in the life field.

In the matter of promptness, too, Woodmen has a superb record. Checks to beneficiaries are usually in the mail within 48 hours after receipt of proofs.

This just, liberal, speedy performance in claim settlements stands out. It is another demonstration of the plus benefits offered by membership in a great Society.

Reddick Will Appeal Circuit Court Order

Psychiatrist Asked To Quit Hospital Post

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — Dr. Robert H. Reddick, faced with dismissal from his position as chief psychiatrist at Eastern Shore State Hospital, said today he would appeal a court order declaring that he fraudulently issued 76 medical licenses.

Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, commissioner of mental hygiene, said Reddick was asked to resign in a letter delivered by Dr. George Currier, head of Eastern Shore Hospital.

Dr. Reddick was not immediately available for comment on the Currier letter.

He said earlier he had not received any communication from Dr. Perkins.

As for a time limit on Dr. Reddick's resignation Dr. Currier said tonight that was "not important."

He declined further comment at this time.

Dr. Reddick indicated earlier he would fight any dismissal effort.

These were today's developments that followed an opinion yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph R. Byrnes. That opinion described the activities of a board of homeopathic medical examiners headed by Reddick as "a bold conspiracy fraught with peril to the public."

Judge Byrnes said 76 medical licenses issued by Reddick went to unqualified persons and ordered the licenses rescinded. He said he would sign an order permanently forbidding Reddick and his associates from issuing any other licenses and directed contempt proceedings against Reddick for issuing four of the licenses in apparent violation of an earlier temporary order.

Reddick said that Judge Byrnes' opinion "was not a decision of law but a personal opinion."

His attorney, Hyman Pressman, said the appeal will be based on contentions that the board of medical examiners headed by Reddick was the legal representative of the Homeopathic Medical Society; that the attorney general of Maryland was not the proper person to bring suit against Reddick, and that other parties should have been made participants in the suit.

Dr. Perkins said that if Reddick did not resign his post at Eastern Shore, dismissal will be sought before the state commissioner of personnel.

In still another development, it was announced today that a Legislative Council committee to review Maryland law involving the practice of medicine and the licensing of doctors would meet Aug. 24 in Baltimore.

New Hurricane Terms Clarified

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — The Weather Bureau today issued a clarifying statement on its definitions of phrases dealing with hurricanes.

A new term is "hurricane watch." It replaces the "hurricane alert," a preliminary notice which "in the past many people had mistaken for a final warning."

"Hurricane watch," the statement said, "is announced for a specific area or areas when a hurricane off the coast poses a possible threat because of its proximity.

"All people in the indicated areas should carry on their normal routines but should keep abreast of future advisories and be ready to take adequate precautions in the event they are necessary."

When you hear "hurricane warning," take all precautions, the bureau advised. It means hurricane winds of 75 miles or higher, with dangerously high water or rough seas expected in the specified areas within 24 hours.

Storm warning. "If it seems that winds will be over 32 miles an hour but under hurricane force of 75 miles an hour in the specified areas, a storm warning may be issued instead of a hurricane warning."

Girl Who Fell Down Mt. Hood Back Home

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—The 14-year-old Baltimore girl who tumbled 400 feet down Mount Hood last July 29 is back home, feeling slightly worse for the experience.

Susan Stein was one of 19 campers who fell down the Oregon mountainside. Some of the hikers slipped and pulled the rest down with them by the rope that joined them.

One of the girls was killed.

The party was on an eight-week hiking and bicycling trip. They were members of the American Youth Hostels.

Susan arrived home last Saturday after 10 days in a Portland, Ore. hospital, where she underwent brain surgery for a head injury.

Cleaners And Dyers To Seek Price Hikes

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—More than 1,000 representatives of Baltimore's cleaning and dyeing industry are scheduled to meet next Sunday to discuss price boosts.

Louis Goodman, chairman of the Wholesale Cleaners and Dyers Assn., said his organization would recommend a five cent per suit price hike by wholesalers. He said the increase probably would be passed on to the consumer.

He said Baltimore's cleaning prices were 30 to 40 per cent below those charged in some cities, and the lowest of any large city in the country.

Few Cases Lost By Government In Federal Court

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — If you were brought to trial in Federal Court in Maryland during the past year, the odds were 50 to 1 you would be convicted.

U. S. Attorney Walter E. Black Jr. said in his annual report for the year ending June 30 that 98 per cent of the criminal cases brought by him and his six assistants were prosecuted successfully.

In tax fraud cases, they had a 100 per cent rating.

The report, made to the U. S. attorney general's office, said Black and his staff handled criminal cases at the rate of 47 a month. Sixty-eight other cases were turned down each month because the facts did not warrant prosecution.

There was an average of 36 civil cases handled each month, resulting in judgements totaling $220,984 for the government.

Black referred to several trials which were instrumental in speeding certain legislation.

One was the case of Capt. John H. Meckling in the sinking of his schooner with the loss of 14 lives. Since then federal law requires all vessels carrying more than six persons for hire to be inspected.

Another case which brought a guilty verdict "put teeth" into the enforcement of laws against monitoring radio police calls.

The right of government officials to inspect wheat acreage of farmers also was upheld in Federal Court here, the report said.

Bids On Highway Project Opened

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — The Patapsco Engineering Co. Inc., of Baltimore was the apparent low bidder at $667,278.90 today on a 6.98-mile road project in Frederick County.

The project calls for the grading, draining and surfacing of 6.730 miles of Maryland 194 from Ceresville to Woodsboro. It also calls for the widening and resurfacing of Maryland 26 for 0.250 mile where Maryland 194 intersects.

Seven bidders competed for the contract. Second low was McQuire and Rolfe of Washington at $686,696, and the bids went as high as $767,351 by Thomas, Bennett and Hunter of Westminster.

Harford County Fair Under Way

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 14 (AP)—The 37th annual Harford County Fair opened at the fair grounds here today. More than 10,000 entries were on display.

The entries were in such categories as livestock, poultry, farm and garden produce and household arts.

Judging will begun tomorrow for the open class Ayrshire and Jersey dairy cattle, Aberdeen-Angus group, swine and shetland ponies.

Some 2,600 entries are competing for prizes in the poultry events, the largest number of entries in any single category.

Entries being judged today include 4-H dairy cattle, baby beef steers, poultry, eggs, lambs and swine.

Fair officials estimate that about 1,800 student exhibits will be on display, ranging from arts and crafts to conservation themes.

Harvesting Of Early Peaches Under Way In State

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 14 (AP) — Harvesting of Hale Haven peaches was expected to get underway this week in Western Maryland, the University of Maryland Extension Service reported today.

The peach harvest already has progressed through Red Havens. Early Elbertas should be ready for harvest the last week of August, the weekly report said, with Elbertas a week later.

The main apple crop is expected to be prime by mid-September.

The bailing of second cutting clover increased in the northern and central counties, and farmers were beginning to prepare seedbeds for summer seeding of alfalfa and pastures.

Virtually all of the corn crop was in tassel. The number of European corn borers has remained about constant throughout the state, although it was increasing in neighboring Delaware.

Lima beans everywhere were being afflicted with downy mildew, and the disease was spreading to cantaloups and watermelons.

In Southern Maryland, cutting of tobacco was generally underway.

Reddick Will Appeal Circuit Court Order

Psychiatrist Asked To Quit Hospital Post

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — Dr. Robert H. Reddick, faced with dismissal from his position as chief psychiatrist at Eastern Shore State Hospital, said today he would appeal a court order declaring that he fraudulently issued 76 medical licenses.

Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, commissioner of mental hygiene, said Reddick was asked to resign in a letter delivered by Dr. George Currier, head of Eastern Shore Hospital.

Dr. Reddick was not immediately available for comment on the Currier letter.

He said earlier he had not received any communication from Dr. Perkins.

As for a time limit on Dr. Reddick's resignation Dr. Currier said tonight that was "not important."

He declined further comment at this time.

Dr. Reddick indicated earlier he would fight any dismissal effort.

These were today's developments that followed an opinion yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph R. Byrnes. That opinion described the activities of a board of homeopathic medical examiners headed by Reddick as "a bold conspiracy fraught with peril to the public."

Judge Byrnes said 76 medical licenses issued by Reddick went to unqualified persons and ordered the licenses rescinded. He said he would sign an order permanently forbidding Reddick and his associates from issuing any other licenses and directed contempt proceedings against Reddick for issuing four of the licenses in apparent violation of an earlier temporary order.

Reddick said that Judge Byrnes' opinion "was not a decision of law but a personal opinion."

His attorney, Hyman Pressman, said the appeal will be based on contentions that the board of medical examiners headed by Reddick was the legal representative of the Homeopathic Medical Society; that the attorney general of Maryland was not the proper person to bring suit against Reddick, and that other parties should have been made participants in the suit.

Dr. Perkins said that if Reddick did not resign his post at Eastern Shore, dismissal will be sought before the state commissioner of personnel.

In still another development, it was announced today that a Legislative Council committee to review Maryland law involving the practice of medicine and the licensing of doctors would meet Aug. 24 in Baltimore.

New Hurricane Terms Clarified

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — The Weather Bureau today issued a clarifying statement on its definitions of phrases dealing with hurricanes.

A new term is "hurricane watch." It replaces the "hurricane alert," a preliminary notice which "in the past many people had mistaken for a final warning."

"Hurricane watch," the statement said, "is announced for a specific area or areas when a hurricane off the coast poses a possible threat because of its proximity.

"All people in the indicated areas should carry on their normal routines but should keep abreast of future advisories and be ready to take adequate precautions in the event they are necessary."

When you hear "hurricane warning," take all precautions, the bureau advised. It means hurricane winds of 75 miles or higher, with dangerously high water or rough seas expected in the specified areas within 24 hours.

Storm warning. "If it seems that winds will be over 32 miles an hour but under hurricane force of 75 miles an hour in the specified areas, a storm warning may be issued instead of a hurricane warning."

Girl Who Fell Down Mt. Hood Back Home

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—The 14-year-old Baltimore girl who tumbled 400 feet down Mount Hood last July 29 is back home, feeling slightly worse for the experience.

Susan Stein was one of 19 campers who fell down the Oregon mountainside. Some of the hikers slipped and pulled the rest down with them by the rope that joined them.

One of the girls was killed.

The party was on an eight-week hiking and bicycling trip. They were members of the American Youth Hostels.

Susan arrived home last Saturday after 10 days in a Portland, Ore. hospital, where she underwent brain surgery for a head injury.

Cleaners And Dyers To Seek Price Hikes

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—More than 1,000 representatives of Baltimore's cleaning and dyeing industry are scheduled to meet next Sunday to discuss price boosts.

Louis Goodman, chairman of the Wholesale Cleaners and Dyers Assn., said his organization would recommend a five cent per suit price hike by wholesalers. He said the increase probably would be passed on to the consumer.

He said Baltimore's cleaning prices were 30 to 40 per cent below those charged in some cities, and the lowest of any large city in the country.

Few Cases Lost By Government In Federal Court

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — If you were brought to trial in Federal Court in Maryland during the past year, the odds were 50 to 1 you would be convicted.

U. S. Attorney Walter E. Black Jr. said in his annual report for the year ending June 30 that 98 per cent of the criminal cases brought by him and his six assistants were prosecuted successfully.

In tax fraud cases, they had a 100 per cent rating.

The report, made to the U. S. attorney general's office, said Black and his staff handled criminal cases at the rate of 47 a month. Sixty-eight other cases were turned down each month because the facts did not warrant prosecution.

There was an average of 36 civil cases handled each month, resulting in judgements totaling $220,984 for the government.

Black referred to several trials which were instrumental in speeding certain legislation.

One was the case of Capt. John H. Meckling in the sinking of his schooner with the loss of 14 lives. Since then federal law requires all vessels carrying more than six persons for hire to be inspected.

Another case which brought a guilty verdict "put teeth" into the enforcement of laws against monitoring radio police calls.

The right of government officials to inspect wheat acreage of farmers also was upheld in Federal Court here, the report said.

Bids On Highway Project Opened

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP) — The Patapsco Engineering Co. Inc., of Baltimore was the apparent low bidder at $667,278.90 today on a 6.98-mile road project in Frederick County.

The project calls for the grading, draining and surfacing of 6.730 miles of Maryland 194 from Ceresville to Woodsboro. It also calls for the widening and resurfacing of Maryland 26 for 0.250 mile where Maryland 194 intersects.

Seven bidders competed for the contract. Second low was McQuire and Rolfe of Washington at $686,696, and the bids went as high as $767,351 by Thomas, Bennett and Hunter of Westminster.

Harford County Fair Under Way

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 14 (AP)—The 37th annual Harford County Fair opened at the fair grounds here today. More than 10,000 entries were on display.

The entries were in such categories as livestock, poultry, farm and garden produce and household arts.

Judging will begun tomorrow for the open class Ayrshire and Jersey dairy cattle, Aberdeen-Angus group, swine and shetland ponies.

Some 2,600 entries are competing for prizes in the poultry events, the largest number of entries in any single category.

Entries being judged today include 4-H dairy cattle, baby beef steers, poultry, eggs, lambs and swine.

Fair officials estimate that about 1,800 student exhibits will be on display, ranging from arts and crafts to conservation themes.

Harvesting Of Early Peaches Under Way In State

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 14 (AP) — Harvesting of Hale Haven peaches was expected to get underway this week in Western Maryland, the University of Maryland Extension Service reported today.

The peach harvest already has progressed through Red Havens. Early Elbertas should be ready for harvest the last week of August, the weekly report said, with Elbertas a week later.

The main apple crop is expected to be prime by mid-September.

The bailing of second cutting clover increased in the northern and central counties, and farmers were beginning to prepare seedbeds for summer seeding of alfalfa and pastures.

Virtually all of the corn crop was in tassel. The number of European corn borers has remained about constant throughout the state, although it was increasing in neighboring Delaware.

Lima beans everywhere were being afflicted with downy mildew, and the disease was spreading to cantaloups and watermelons.

It's Cheaper By Cape Of Good Hope

With a full load, the "supertanker" oil ships cannot go through the Suez Canal, which has a controlling depth of only 35 feet. So most tankers in that class—say 32,000 tons and over, drawing 40 feet or more loaded—are on runs that do not involve Middle East Oil.

South America to Europe is one such run. So is Galveston to Philadelphia.

But so cheaply can the big tankers carry oil, over great distances, that some of them are running from the Middle East via the Cape of Good Hope and the Panama Canal. They were doing this long before Nasser seized the Suez Canal from its owners.

No matter what happens in Egypt those great tankers will be rounding the southern tip of Africa. Such a ship hauls oil half way around the world for less than the prewar cost. And this, of course, includes the jog down around Good Hope.

It is true that the Port of Philadelphia, terminus of 41 per cent of all oil shipments, cannot be reached by the biggest tankers fully loaded. But some lightering of oil from the Delaware Capes would doubtless be less costly than running smaller ships clear across an ocean and paying canal tolls to boot.

It is possible that as time goes on the Suez Canal will be less vital as an oil-carrying artery from the Middle East. Many more huge tankers are on order. This may give Nasser pause, and remind Soviet Russia that the canal's historic character as a lifeline between Europe and the East may not be destined to remain unchanged forever.

'Red Channels' Decision

A very important decision was handed down in the New York State Court of Appeals in the case of Joe Julian vs. American Business Consultants, Inc., publishers of the book "Red Channels" which stirs such controversy as it was assumed by many whose names appeared in this book that they lost employment because of it. Joe Julian is a radio actor and is cited in that book in relation to organizations that are regarded by some as pro-Communist.

Julian sued for libel. The lower courts held that "Red Channels" had not libeled him and he appealed to this highest court of New York State. The defendants claimed that they merely engaged in fair comment.

The court held, with one dissenting opinion to which I shall refer, that "The public always must be given the opportunity to make its own decision. To this end the right to speak and write freely in regard to public personalities has always been defended as long as the right is exercised openly and reasonably. In this way the public can judge those reporting, as well as those reported. The clandestine work of bigotry and intolerance flourishes when comment is suppressed. Those who seek public acclaim and support, cannot expect immunity from criticism or insist that the public remain uninformed regarding their activities. The conduct of public figures is legitimate matter of investigation . . ."

Further the court held:

"Free speech is not the sole property of special classes of our people, such as radical or liberal dissenters, or opponents of censorship. Every person has the right of free speech, even the moderate, the conservative dissenter and the prude. The plaintiff had the rights of assembly, of petition, and the exercise of free speech in attending a Communist front meeting organized to set in motion measures designed to abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee, and to call for a second front in Europe in October, 1942, after our entry into World War II and while we were under intense attack by the Japanese, although the Government's domestic and foreign policies were otherwise.

"To the same extent his fellow citizens have a right to show who organized the meetings, why in their opinion they organized the meetings, and whether the meetings were part of a plan, and what standing the organizers of the meeting have in the community and whether in their opinion it impaired his qualification for employment in an industry disseminating news and ideas."

The court particularly made the case that Communists and their friends sought special privileges:

". . . The sum of the plaintiff's argument is that comment is actionable if it is directed at any one who, though not a Communist, associated with Communist fronts. Associating with Communist fronts, in other words, coupled with comments thereon, creates a prima facie indefensible case of libel. Such a rule would establish a privileged class of citizen and would be wholly un-American. Safeguarding and protecting the individual liberty of freedom of speech for all is for the general good, though it may work a private injury. The injury in one's trade or occupation can be equally as severe to a conservative, moderate or prude when attention is called to their activities, as well as to the radical, liberal and opponent of censorship . . ."

This opinion negates what has come to be known as the Fuld Decision which makes it libel per se to identify one as a Communist unless the person admits to being one and naturally Judge Fuld dissents and writes a full opinion which contains this sentence:

". . . There is nothing in the booklet ("Red Channels") to indicate that a performer who assists and advances the Communist cause unknowingly, and without recognizing that he is doing so, merits any better industry treatment than the active card-carrying Communist . . ."

Surely Judge Fuld knows that there are no card-carrying Communists in the United States and that there have been none for many years. Congressional committees and other governmental agencies have encountered the absence of the membership card for so many years that it is impossible to believe that an intelligent judge in a high court would still use the obsolescent phrase "card-carrying Communist."

What has been established by this decision is that if a person chooses a way of life which involves him in public comment, he must expect public comment and it is not libelous if the comment is truthful and not malicious.

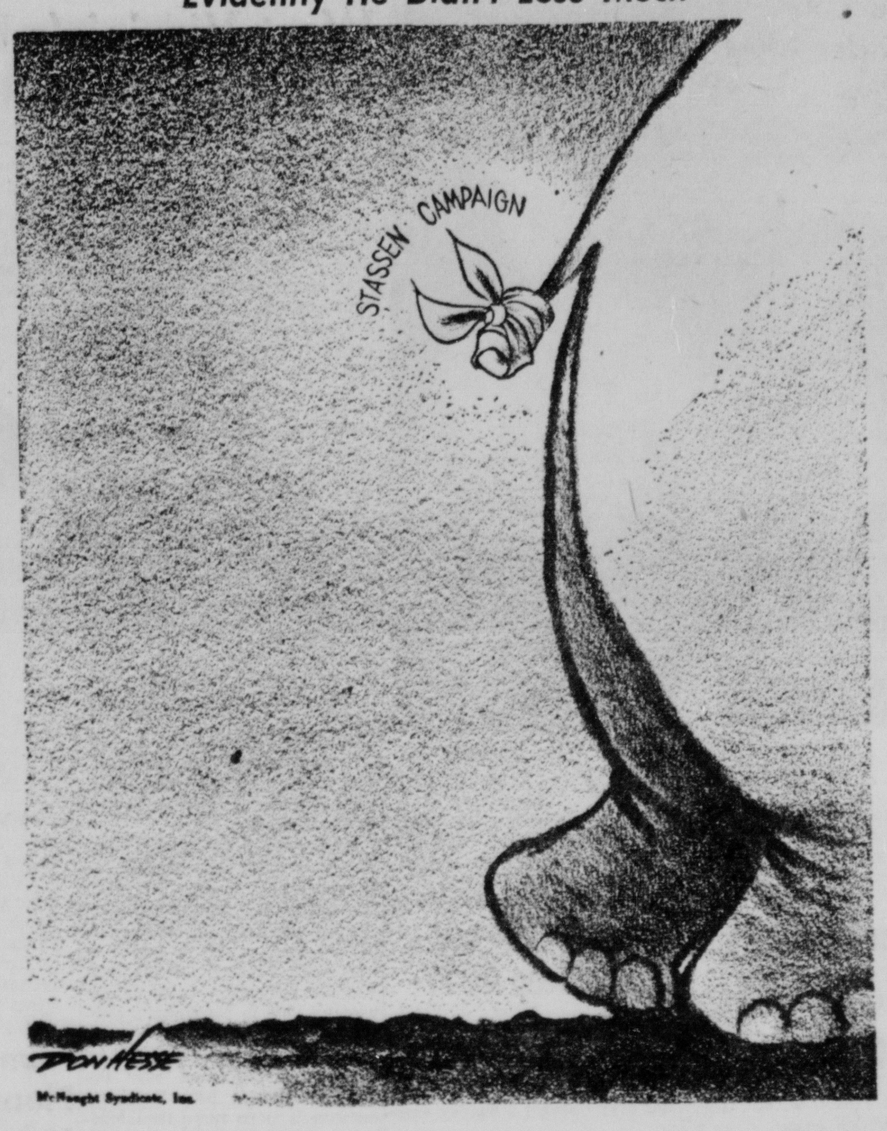
Evidently He Didn't Lose Much



Adlai-Estes 'Smoke-Filled Room' Meeting Unusual; No Deals Made

By Drew Pearson

CHICAGO. — Convention politics in this sprawling vibrating city can be as changeable as the Canadian breeze off Lake Michigan or the hot wind off the prairies. It can be as clean as the tower along the lake front built on chewing gum or as putrid as the stockyards or as tawdry as the b-girl dives along Wabash Avenue. In brief, Chicago is unpredictable and so is convention politics . . . but in a city which has seen Warren G. Harding's name pulled out of a smoke-filled deadlock between General Leonard Woods and Governor Frank O. Lowden, that saw Harry Truman's name come out of a smoke-filled room to be vice-president, and which saw Richard Nixon's name zoom out of another smoke-filled room to soar from a relative unknown to one of the more famous names in the nation against this background, a strange thing happened at this convention . . . . two men sat down in a smoke-filled room in which neither smoked and neither proposed a deal. The two had fought each other through Minnesota, Florida, California, had said some unkind things about each other. But in a hotel room in Chicago they sat down and talked things over together. . . . they talked for an hour and a half. Estes Kefauver outlined the delegates he thought were weak and might not go to Stevenson; also the delegates that were likely to follow his advice and support Stevenson. He went over the political chart of the U.S.A. state by state; Adlai Stevenson listened . . . Kefauver asked for nothing in return. Stevenson offered nothing in return—a rarity in American politics.

LOVE THAT LYNDON — Two days before the Chicago merry-go-round opened tall, handsome Lyndon Johnson of Texas had no more idea of taking his candidacy seriously than he did of abandoning his campaign to help big gas, oil producers. Suddenly on the Hilton's 23rd floor carpenters began nailing together a Johnson booth. Suddenly Johnson placards blossomed from nowhere; red silk "Love That Lyndon" ribbons were passed out to anyone looking remotely like a Texan.. Suddenly also, Lyndon flew to Chicago . . . reason:

Lyndon heard via his old friend and political mentor Sam Rayburn, that Harry Truman was coming out for Averell Harriman—which meant a possible deadlocked convention, a race in which a dark horse might win. Truman's announcement was to be at 3:30. That was why Lyndon, one of the smartest political operators of this generation, beat him to it with his own announcement at 1:30 p.m. that he was in the race to stay . . . whether he stays or performs a holding operation for his friend, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, remains to be seen. In either event, cardiac Lyndon was missing no tricks—even if he did knock another prop out from under the best campaign issue the Democrats have, the health of cardiac Eisenhower.

SCURRYING DELEGATES—Almost none of the Kefauver-Stevenson faithful knew their chiefs had huddled alone in a nonsmoke-filled room, had discussed their delegates, but made no deals. They also didn't know that Harriman's men had been all over Chicago and by telephone all over the U.S.A., wooing Kefauver's released delegates . . . complacently, Stevenson men had sat by, waiting for delegates to come to them. This didn't happen. Said Minnesota Bob Short, "we voted against Adlai Stevenson and for Kefauver. We're not going to back the man we voted against unless he takes Kefauver for vice president.". . . out in Idaho, where Harriman's Union Pacific Railroad is powerful some Kefauver delegates switched fast to Harriman. Some even had their way paid to Chicago by Harriman . . . belatedly after Harry Truman electrified the convention, after Lyndon Johnson announced his holding operation, complacent Stevenson managers got busy.

Chicago-Go-Round

Ex-president Truman wrote to several friends before leaving for Chicago. "Come out to Chicago," he urged. "Something dramatic is going to happen.". . . Adlai Stevenson's 1952 running mate, Alabama Senator John Sparkman, paid a private call on Stevenson to make clear he didn't expect to be on the ticket again. . . Senator Estes Kefauver, who has battled with big city bosses, is backed for the vice presidency by two of the most powerful bosses—Chicago's Jake Arvey and Pittsburgh's Mayor Dave Lawrence. They want him because they are convinced he would add the most strength to the Democratic ticket. . . . coincidentally, Kefauver is also favored by most midwest farm delegates who sent Minnesota's Don Wozniack and Bob Short to notify Stevenson that they would support him if Kefauver were on the ticket. All Stevenson would say was that he had not promised the vice presidency to anyone else. . . . Governor Harriman's political henchman, Carmine De Sapio, has sounded out Kentucky's Governor Happy Chandler about running as Harriman's vice president. . . . Harry Truman has hinted privately that he thinks Tennessee's young, Bible-quoting Governor Frank Clement would make an appealing vice president. . . . Indiana's arch-Republican Senator Bill Jenner showed up in Chicago in the middle of the Democratic Convention. He explained firmly to curious Democrats that he had come to see the all-star football game. . . . Los Angeles manufacturer Allan Adler is prepared to stamp out 5,000 lapel pins per day to Adlai Stevenson's famous hole-in-the-sole shoe. Stevenson headquarters plan to peddle the pins for $1.00 each if their candidate wins.

Affable, back-slapping Happy Chandler, Governor of Kentucky and the favorite-son candidate from that state, is passing out $500 bills to visitors at his headquarters on the 13th floor of the Sheraton Blackstone Hotel. The bills are backed by the Confederate States of America, though, and some delegates are commenting that Happy's chances aren't worth any more than the fake money.

An hour after Harry Truman came out for Harriman at a mammouth press conference in the Crystal Room of the Blackstone, Stevenson hastily called one in the lounge he maintains for delegates and visitors in the Conrad Hilton. Thousands of interested bystanders thronged in along with the press and as Stevenson pushed his way through the crowd one bystander asked, "who's that?"

"It's the reservation clerk," was the reply.

When cars bound for the all star game jammed Lake Shore Drive Friday night, one football fan pulled an end-around play and avoided the traffic. Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, ex-Secretary of Agriculture under Truman, rode to lake-side Soldiers Field in a speed boat. He met almost no interference on the water.

Stevenson Forces Undiscouraged By Truman Stand

By David Lawrence

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 — Convention strategy, never visible to the naked eye, always follows a certain pattern—and today it may be summed up this way: Truman's effort to demoralize the Stevenson contingent by endorsing Harriman failed to achieve its objective. The Stevenson followers, many of them former officeholders in the Truman Administration, have stood firm. They say: "We like Truman, but—."

Usually no "dark horse" situation develops unless two strong factions remain uncompromising. In this convention, while there is strategic hostility between Stevenson and Harriman, their followers could unite quickly at the proper moment. One could give way to the other in an outburst of harmony and the delegates would feel they were making a demonstration of "unity."

Mr. Truman, on arriving here, felt out the situation. He concluded that the Stevenson strength was overrated and that it couldn't stand a body blow. He believed the Stevenson delegates were not committed too strongly and that their first-ballot strength would be a maximum. But it hasn't turned out that way. If the Stevenson contingent had been seriously hurt by the Truman maneuver for Harriman, there would have been some evidence of it by this time.

Naturally, when Truman threw his bombshell, the reporters began canvassing the delegations to see what the effect was. Almost everybody was surprised by the firmness of the Stevenson bloc. It shook a bit but didn't waver. Especially significant was Mrs. Roosevelt's intimation that maybe Harry Truman was angling for the nomination for himself or for Senator Symington of Missouri. Some delegates promptly pointed out that it is most unusual for a party leader to desert a "Favorite Son" as fast as Mr. Truman did. The Missouri delegation, on the other hand, is still pledged to cast a ballot or two for Symington. He has some strength in other states, but it is scattered.

The nomination will not go to a "Dark Horse," because no large bloc of votes is of the bitter end or "never-never" kind. It's true with respect to the candidacies of both Harriman and Stevenson. Either man would be acceptable to this convention. Both are staunch followers of the New Deal and the Fair Deal, with minor variations between them hardly distinguishable to the average voter, despite the label "moderationist" which has been given to Stevenson and the characterization "extreme liberal" which has been given Harriman.

Basically, Harriman would antagonize the south and cause a political revolt there and perhaps give rise to a third party on the "States' Rights" order, such as happened in 1948. Most of the delegates realize that the support of the South in the electoral college is absolutely essential.

So Harriman may be eliminated on that ground unless the platform adopted is drafted as a major concession to the South and then Harriman would improve his chances if he said he would stand upon it without reservation or change.

For some reason, Stevenson has sold himself to the South as a "gradualist," which means no stampede to enforce integration in the schools but a slower approach. Stevenson's worries today are with what the platform finally says, especially if he is to be committed to a more extreme approach than the South would like to see.

So the way the platform shapes up will have a good deal to do with the outcome of the convention and could furnish some surprises. It seems improbable, however, that the Stevenson managers, who have control of the platform committee, would let the situation grow precarious. Even Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, a staunch Stevenson supporter, who was one of the leaders in the fight for the Civil Rights program in the 1948 and 1952 conventions, is talking in conciliatory terms.

Stevenson himself now says that, in his impromptu interview last week, he meant to say that the platform should "support" the Supreme Court decision on integration and that he didn't mean "approve." The favorite argument now heard is that you don't "approve" or "disapprove" Supreme Court rulings—you either "obey" and "support" them or you "disobey" and fail to "support" or "enforce" them.

It looks now as if Senator Kefauver made a mistake in releasing his delegates so many days before the convention met. Had he held on, there would have been a three-cornered fight here and Truman might never have taken the chance he did in coming out for Harriman.

The net result would have been that, when the Kefauver delegates were told their hero was swinging to Stevenson, it would have created a "band wagon" psychology of great importance on the day before the balloting starts.

It is argued, on the other hand, that for several days now Stevenson's "band wagon" strength has been building up because of what Senator Kefauver did. Much will depend on whether the Tennessee Senator is himself considered for the vice presidency. His own state isn't so sure about it, as there's a boomlet on, too, for Senator Gore, also of Tennessee, and one of the ablest of the younger group in the Senate.

More and more jockeying can be expected, with subtle hints to various delegations from the Stevenson and Harriman managers that the vice presidency might go to their states.

In the final analysis, there's always a good political reason advanced in picking the vice presidential candidate—he must bring strength to the national ticket. Governor Meyner of New Jersey is a good example. He is strong in a state that the Democrats desperately need to win. Senator Humphrey brings strength from Minnesota. Missouri is "in the bag," some Democratic strategists say, so they are not counting on Symington for the second spot, though the Southerners like him. Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, of course, could emerge as a real peace-offering to the South by this convention. It looks more and more like a Stevenson-Meyner ticket or a Stevenson-Johnson campaign button.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Nomination by acclamation is a political caper circumventing the rights of minorities, the inalienable privilege of the second guess and the autocratic limitation of the sale of hot dogs.

Selection by unanimous decibles is a college cheer that cancels the football schedule.

You can study things out ahead like the old lady taking her umbrella to the picnic. But we don't like to see snap judgement working on anything but a frankfurter.

The Democratic Convention we remember best was the one that went to fifty-seven ballots. It was at the cow palace in 1920. It was not until 1932 that Franklin Roosevelt avenged the Democrats by making the dollar bills smaller.

Never before have the Democrats come close to agreeing on anything but cat-calls and station announcements. In the gabby old days they backed and filled like a distiller's truck at the used mash chute.

We have regarded the Democratic chatterbunds as get-togethers for tug-of-words. Nobody agreed until they forgot what they were arguing about.

We're for fast Olympics, quick sales, short rightfield fences and instantaneous waffle mixes. But we like our convention drawn out like a worm shaking hands with a robin.

If we lose freedom of corroboration and liberty of rebuttal then we should have more amendments and less constitution.

Convention Facts

By Bob Considine

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—(INS)—Any reporter who goofs up on his facts at the Chicago or San Francisco conventions just hasn't taken the trouble to lift one of the manuals and handbooks prepared in advance by the wire services, a few newspapers and the networks. Months in preparation, these documents bear the hallmark of U. S. journalism, accurate reporting.

One learns from the "1956 National Convention Handbook" compiled by Bill Theis of International News Service, such things as:

The word "caucus" is Indian for elder or leader . . . The device we call the convention, unknown in the earliest days of American politics was contrived by the Anti-Mason Party in 1831. Andrew Jackson whipped the first Democratic National Convention into being in 1832 to drum up interest in Martin Van Buren as his running mate . . . The Republican Party was born in Pittsburgh, February 22, 1856 . . . John Tyler cried himself into the presidency. Seems that he was so riled at the 1840 Whig Convention for nominating William Henry Harrison over Henry Clay that he burst into tears. The convention promptly chose him as its vice presidential nominee. Harrison caught pneumonia at his inauguration and died a month later, making Tyler president.

John W. Davis was nominated on the 103rd ballot at old Madison Square Garden in New York in 1924 . . . A permanent chairman is assisted by a parliamentarian, a reading clerk and a sergeant-at-arms . . . GOP National Chairman Len Hall was a sheriff before he became a surrogate judge, and he went to Georgetown . . . Adlai Stevenson was managing editor of the Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph . . . President Eisenhower won by 6,616,233 votes, carried 39 states, received 442 electoral votes to Stevenson's 89 . . . and so forth.

NBC'S convention handbook reports:

San Francisco's Cow Palace was named in derision. "While people are being evicted from their homes a palace for cows is being built in Visitacion Valley," a San Francisco newspaper complained during its construction. The fellow who wrote the headline shorted it to "Cow Palace." . . . Henry Clay ran for the nomination until he was 71. He couldn't even carry Kentucky by then . . . Millard Fillmore and Andrew Donelson comprised the "Know Nothing" party's ticket . . . If Harriman and Symington get it here, it won't be history-making. The Democrats nominated New York Governor Horatio Seymour and Gen. Francis B. Blair of Missouri . . . Andrew Jackson, on leaving office, said he had only two regrets. One that he had not shot Clay, and the other that he did not hang Calhoun.

Nicholas Biddle of the United States Bank advised William Henry Harrison "to say not one single word about his principles or his creed—let him say nothing—promise nothing. Let no committee, no convention, no town meeting ever extract from him a single word about what he thinks and will do hereafter. Let the use of pen and ink be wholly forbidden.

Songs were lustier in the old days of politicking. One that helped drive Andrew Johnson out of office went, "Drive out old Andy, his treachery and sin, break all his bottles of brandy and gin. Put in his place our young bright star, the wise little general who smokes his cigar."

It doesn't seem likely that there can ever again be a campaign that will approach the rancid bitterness of the 1884 campaign. The Republican, James G. Blaine, was assailed with a chant that went, "Blaine! Blaine! James G. Blaine! the Continental Liar from the State of Maine!" Cleveland, charged with having an illegitimate child, heard everywhere he went, "Ma! Ma! Where's my pa? He's gone to the White House—Ha! Ha! Ha!"

It's Ragweed Pollination (Hayfever) Time Again

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Ragweed is the number one cause of hay fever in the United States. Pollination occurs during the late summer and early fall and in this season, the allergic individual is miserable.

Ragweed free locations in this country include the wooded areas of extreme northern Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, and Maine. The weed is not too prevalent west of the Cascades of Oregon and Washington, the central Adirondacks in the northeast, and south Florida. The same can be said of mountainous regions and deserts, provided the land is not cultivated. The best place is in the middle of the ocean.

This information may come in handy for hay fever sufferers who wish to vacation in one of these spots. The American Foundation for Allergic Diseases, Inc., has prepared a ragweed pollen index of several hundred towns. It is not necessary to select a site that is completely pollen free because most hay fever victims remain comfortable so long as the count is low.

Many communities have attempted to eliminate ragweed through various programs and legislative procedures. They cut or spray weeds in vacant lots and parkways and along highways. This eliminates the local source but has little or no effect upon pollen blown in from neighboring grain fields and other communities that do nothing about the weed.

This drawback to weed eradication explains why most authorities rely upon other methods of control such as filters, immunizing injections, the antihistaminics, and hormones such as cortisone, hydrocortisone, prednisone, or ACTH.

Innumerable nasal sprays, inhalers, and drops offer immediate relief. These products shrink the nasal membranes but should not be used too frequently; after the initial reaction wears off, the tissues become more congested than ever.

Spring hay fever usually is associated with pollens of common trees such as the poplar, maple, elm, birch, and oak. When nasal congestion and sneezing appear, in late spring and early summer, the physician suspects pollinating grasses.

Nasal allergy also is caused by molds such as those that decompose fruit, grow on bread, and thrive in old musty homes, on wheat, leaves, and corn. Year 'round hay fever generally is a product of house dust, feathers, or animal hair. Guessing is unnecessary as it is easy to determine the culprit.

Try And Stop Me!

The hatchet-faced dame tapped the monkey house manager indignantly on the shoulder. "Those wretched animals of yours appear to be playing dice! I demand that you break up the game at once!"

"Shucks," shrugged the keeper, "they're keeping strictly within the law, ma'am. They're only playing for peanuts."

On the old road from the desert to San Diego there is a very dangerous precipice. Harry Oliver says they had a warning sign posted there for years, but nobody fell over so they took it down.

It's Cheaper By Cape Of Good Hope

With a full load, the "supertanker" oil ships cannot go through the Suez Canal, which has a controlling depth of only 35 feet. So most tankers in that class—say 32,000 tons and over, drawing 40 feet or more loaded—are on runs that do not involve Middle East Oil.

South America to Europe is one such run. So is Galveston to Philadelphia.

But so cheaply can the big tankers carry oil, over great distances, that some of them are running from the Middle East via the Cape of Good Hope and the Panama Canal. They were doing this long before Nasser seized the Suez Canal from its owners.

No matter what happens in Egypt those great tankers will be rounding the southern tip of Africa. Such a ship hauls oil half way around the world for less than the prewar cost. And this, of course, includes the jog down around Good Hope.

It is true that the Port of Philadelphia, terminus of 41 per cent of all oil shipments, cannot be reached by the biggest tankers fully loaded. But some lightering of oil from the Delaware Capes would doubtless be less costly than running smaller ships clear across an ocean and paying canal tolls to boot.

It is possible that as time goes on the Suez Canal will be less vital as an oil-carrying artery from the Middle East. Many more huge tankers are on order. This may give Nasser pause, and remind Soviet Russia that the canal's historic character as a lifeline between Europe and the East may not be destined to remain unchanged forever.

These Days

'Red Channels' Decision

A very important decision was handed down in the New York State Court of Appeals in the case of Joe Julian vs. American Business Consultants, Inc., publishers of the book "Red Channels" which stirs such controversy as it was assumed by many whose names appeared in this book that they lost employment because of it. Joe Julian is a radio actor and is cited in that book in relation to organizations that are regarded by some as pro-Communist.

Julian sued for libel. The lower courts held that "Red Channels" had not libeled him and he appealed to this highest court of New York State. The defendants claimed that they merely engaged in fair comment.

The court held, with one dissenting opinion to which I shall refer, that "The public always must be given the opportunity to make its own decision. To this end the right to speak and write freely in regard to public personalities has always been defended as long as the right is exercised openly and reasonably. In this way the public can judge those reporting, as well as those reported. The clandestine work of bigotry and intolerance flourishes when comment is suppressed. Those who seek public acclaim and support, cannot expect immunity from criticism or insist that the public remain uninformed regarding their activities. The conduct of public figures is legitimate matter of investigation . . ."

Further the court held:

"Free speech is not the sole property of special classes of our people, such as radical or liberal dissenters, or opponents of censorship. Every person has the right of free speech, even the moderate, the conservative dissenter and the prude. The plaintiff had the rights of assembly, of petition, and the exercise of free speech in attending a Communist front meeting organized to set in motion measures designed to abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee, and to call for a second front in Europe in October, 1942, after our entry into World War II and while we were under intense attack by the Japanese, although the Government's domestic and foreign policies were otherwise.

"To the same extent his fellow citizens have a right to show who organized the meetings, why in their opinion they organized the meetings, and whether the meetings were part of a plan, and what standing the organizers of the meeting have in the community and whether in their opinion it impaired his qualification for employment in an industry disseminating news and ideas."

The court particularly made the case that Communists and their friends sought special privileges:

". . . The sum of the plaintiff's argument is that comment is actionable if it is directed at any one who, though not a Communist, associated with Communist fronts. Associating with Communist fronts, in other words, coupled with comments thereon, creates a prima facie indefensible case of libel. Such a rule would establish a privileged class of citizen and would be wholly un-American. Safeguarding and protecting the individual liberty of freedom of speech for all is for the general good, though it may work a private injury. The injury in one's trade or occupation can be equally as severe to a conservative, moderate or prude when attention is called to their activities, as well as to the radical, liberal and opponent of censorship . . ."

This opinion negates what has come to be known as the Fuld Decision which makes it libel per se to identify one as a Communist unless the person admits to being one and naturally Judge Fuld dissents and writes a full opinion which contains this sentence:

". . . There is nothing in the booklet ("Red Channels") to indicate that a performer who assists and advances the Communist cause unknowingly, and without recognizing that he is doing so, merits any better industry treatment than the active card-carrying Communist . . ."

Surely Judge Fuld knows that there are no card-carrying Communists in the United States and that there have been none for many years. Congressional committees and other governmental agencies have encountered the absence of the membership card for so many years that it is impossible to believe that an intelligent judge in a high court would still use the obsolescent phrase "card-carrying Communist."

What has been established by this decision is that if a person chooses a way of life which involves him in public comment, he must expect public comment and it is not libelous if the comment is truthful and not malicious.

Evidently He Didn't Lose Much

Stevenson Forces Undiscouraged By Truman Stand

By David Lawrence

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 — Convention strategy, never visible to the naked eye, always follows a certain pattern—and today it may be summed up this way: Truman's effort to demoralize the Stevenson contingent by endorsing Harriman failed to achieve its objective. The Stevenson followers, many of them former officeholders in the Truman Administration, have stood firm. They say: "We like Truman, but—."

Usually no "dark horse" situation develops unless two strong factions remain uncompromising. In this convention, while there is strategic hostility between Stevenson and Harriman, their followers could unite quickly at the proper moment. One could give way to the other in an outburst of harmony and the delegates would feel they were making a demonstration of "unity."

Mr. Truman, on arriving here, felt out the situation. He concluded that the Stevenson strength was overrated and that it couldn't stand a body blow. He believed the Stevenson delegates were not committed too strongly and that their first-ballot strength would be a maximum. But it hasn't turned out that way. If the Stevenson contingent had been seriously hurt by the Truman maneuver for Harriman, there would have been some evidence of it by this time.

Naturally, when Truman threw his bombshell, the reporters began canvassing the delegations to see what the effect was. Almost everybody was surprised by the firmness of the Stevenson bloc. It shook a bit but didn't waver. Especially significant was Mrs. Roosevelt's intimation that maybe Harry Truman was angling for the nomination for himself or for Senator Symington of Missouri. Some delegates promptly pointed out that it is most unusual for a party leader to desert a "Favorite Son" as fast as Mr. Truman did. The Missouri delegation, on the other hand, is still pledged to cast a ballot or two for Symington. He has some strength in other states, but it is scattered.

The nomination will not go to a "Dark Horse," because no large bloc of votes is of the bitter end or "never-never" kind. It's true with respect to the candidacies of both Harriman and Stevenson. Either man would be acceptable to this convention. Both are staunch followers of the New Deal and the Fair Deal, with minor variations between them hardly distinguishable to the average voter, despite the label "moderationist" which has been given to Stevenson and the characterization "extreme liberal" which has been given Harriman.

Basically, Harriman would antagonize the south and cause a political revolt there and perhaps give rise to a third party on the "States' Rights" order, such as happened in 1948. Most of the delegates realize that the support of the South in the electoral college is absolutely essential.

So Harriman may be eliminated on that ground unless the platform adopted is drafted as a major concession to the South and then Harriman would improve his chances if he said he would stand upon it without reservation or change.

For some reason, Stevenson has sold himself to the South as a "gradualist," which means no stampede to enforce integration in the schools but a slower approach. Stevenson's worries today are with what the platform finally says, especially if he is to be committed to a more extreme approach than the South would like to see.

So the way the platform shapes up will have a good deal to do with the outcome of the convention and could furnish some surprises. It seems improbable, however, that the Stevenson managers, who have control of the platform committee, would let the situation grow precarious. Even Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, a staunch Stevenson supporter, who was one of the leaders in the fight for the Civil Rights program in the 1948 and 1952 conventions, is talking in conciliatory terms.

Stevenson himself now says that, in his impromptu interview last week, he meant to say that the platform should "support" the Supreme Court decision on integration and that he didn't mean "approve." The favorite argument now heard is that you don't "approve" or "disapprove" Supreme Court rulings—you either "obey" and "support" them or you "disobey" and fail to "support" or "enforce" them.

It looks now as if Senator Kefauver made a mistake in releasing his delegates so many days before the convention met. Had he held on, there would have been a three-cornered fight here and Truman might never have taken the chance he did in coming out for Harriman.

The net result would have been that, when the Kefauver delegates were told their hero was swinging to Stevenson, it would have created a "band wagon" psychology of great importance on the day before the balloting starts.

It is argued, on the other hand, that for several days now Stevenson's "band wagon" strength has been building up because of what Senator Kefauver did. Much will depend on whether the Tennessee Senator is himself considered for the vice presidency. His own state isn't so sure about it, as there's a boomlet on, too, for Senator Gore, also of Tennessee, and one of the ablest of the younger group in the Senate.

More and more jockeying can be expected, with subtle hints to various delegations from the Stevenson and Harriman managers that the vice presidency might go to their states.

In the final analysis, there's always a good political reason advanced in picking the vice presidential candidate—he must bring strength to the national ticket. Governor Meyner of New Jersey is a good example. He is strong in a state that the Democrats desperately need to win. Senator Humphrey brings strength from Minnesota. Missouri is "in the bag," some Democratic strategists say, so they are not counting on Symington for the second spot, though the Southerners like him. Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, of course, could emerge as a real peace-offering to the South by this convention. It looks more and more like a Stevenson-Meyner ticket or a Stevenson-Johnson campaign button.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Nomination by acclamation is a political caper circumventing the rights of minorities, the inalienable privilege of the second guess and the autocratic limitation of the sale of hot dogs.

Selection by unanimous decibles is a college cheer that cancels the football schedule.

You can study things out ahead like the old lady taking her umbrella to the picnic. But we don't like to see snap judgement working on anything but a frankfurter.

The Democratic Convention we remember best was the one that went to fifty-seven ballots. It was at the cow palace in 1920. It was not until 1932 that Franklin Roosevelt avenged the Democrats by making the dollar bills smaller.

Never before have the Democrats come close to agreeing on anything but cat-calls and station announcements. In the gabby old days they backed and filled like a distiller's truck at the used mash chute.

We have regarded the Democratic chatterbunds as get-togethers for tug-of-words. Nobody agreed until they forgot what they were arguing about.

We're for fast Olympics, quick sales, short rightfield fences and instantaneous waffle mixes. But we like our convention drawn out like a worm shaking hands with a robin.

If we lose freedom of corroboration and liberty of rebuttal then we should have more amendments and less constitution.

Adlai-Estes 'Smoke-Filled Room' Meeting Unusual; No Deals Made

By Drew Pearson

CHICAGO.—Convention politics in this sprawling vibrating city can be as changeable as the Canadian breeze off Lake Michigan or the hot wind off the prairies. It can be as clean as the tower along the lake front built on chewing gum or as putrid as the stockyards or as tawdry as the b-girl dives along Wabash Avenue. In brief, Chicago is unpredictable and so is convention politics . . . but in a city which has seen Warren G. Harding's name pulled out of a smoke-filled deadlock between General Leonard Woods and Governor Frank O. Lowden, that saw Harry Truman's name come out of a smoke-filled room to be vice-president, and which saw Richard Nixon's name zoom out of another smoke-filled room to soar from a relative unknown to one of the more famous names in the nation against this background, a strange thing happened at this convention . . . . two men sat down in a smoke-filled room in which neither smoked and neither proposed a deal. The two had fought each other through Minnesota, Florida, California, had said some unkind things about each other. But in a hotel room in Chicago they sat down and talked things over together. . . . they talked for an hour and a half. Estes Kefauver outlined the delegates he thought were weak and might not go to Stevenson; also the delegates that were likely to follow his advice and support Stevenson. He went over the political chart of the U.S.A. state by state; Adlai Stevenson listened . . . Kefauver asked for nothing in return. Stevenson offered nothing in return—a rarity in American politics.

LOVE THAT LYNDON — Two days before the Chicago merry-go-round opened tall, handsome Lyndon Johnson of Texas had no more idea of taking his candidacy seriously than he did of abandoning his campaign to help big gas, oil producers. Suddenly on the Hilton's 23rd floor carpenters began nailing together a Johnson booth. Suddenly Johnson placards blossomed from nowhere; red silk "Love That Lyndon" ribbons were passed out to anyone looking remotely like a Texan.. Suddenly also, Lyndon flew to Chicago . . . reason:

Lyndon heard via his old friend and political mentor Sam Rayburn, that Harry Truman was coming out for Averell Harriman—which meant a possible deadlocked convention, a race in which a dark horse might win. Truman's announcement was to be at 3:30. That was why Lyndon, one of the smartest political operators of this generation, beat him to it with his own announcement at 1:30 p.m. that he was in the race to stay . . . whether he stays or performs a holding operation for his friend, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, remains to be seen. In either event, cardiac Lyndon was missing no tricks—even if he did knock another prop out from under the best campaign issue the Democrats have, the health of cardiac Eisenhower.

SCURRYING DELEGATES—Almost none of the Kefauver-Stevenson faithful knew their chiefs had huddled alone in a nonsmoke-filled room, had discussed their delegates, but made no deals. They also didn't know that Harriman's men had been all over Chicago and by telephone all over the U.S.A., wooing Kefauver's released delegates . . . complacently, Stevenson men had sat by, waiting for delegates to come to them. This didn't happen. Said Minnesota Bob Short, "we voted against Adlai Stevenson and for Kefauver. We're not going to back the man we voted against unless he takes Kefauver for vice president." . . . out in Idaho, where Harriman's Union Pacific Railroad is powerful some Kefauver delegates switched fast to Harriman. Some even had their way paid to Chicago by Harriman . . . belatedly after Harry Truman electrified the convention, after Lyndon Johnson announced his holding operation, complacent Stevenson managers got busy.

Chicago-Go-Round

Ex-president Truman wrote to several friends before leaving for Chicago. "Come out to Chicago," he urged. "Something dramatic is going to happen." . . . Adlai Stevenson's 1952 running mate, Alabama Senator John Sparkman, paid a private call on Stevenson to make clear he didn't expect to be on the ticket again. . . . Senator Estes Kefauver, who has battled with big city bosses, is backed for the vice presidency by two of the most powerful bosses—Chicago's Jake Arvey and Pittsburgh's Mayor Dave Lawrence. They want him because they are convinced he would add the most strength to the Democratic ticket. . . . coincidentally, Kefauver is also favored by most midwest farm delegates who sent Minnesota's Don Wozniack and Bob Short to notify Stevenson that they would support him if Kefauver were on the ticket. All Stevenson would say was that he had not promised the vice presidency to anyone else. . . . Governor Harriman's political henchman, Carmine De Sapio, has sounded out Kentucky's Governor Happy Chandler about running as Harriman's vice president. . . . Harry Truman has hinted privately that he thinks Tennessee's young, Bible-quoting Governor Frank Clement would make an appealing vice president. . . . Indiana's arch-Republican Senator Bill Jenner showed up in Chicago in the middle of the Democratic Convention. He explained firmly to curious Democrats that he had come to see the all-star football game. . . . Los Angeles manufacturer Allan Adler is prepared to stamp out 5,000 lapel pins per day to Adlai Stevenson's famous hole-in-the-sole shoe. Stevenson headquarters plan to peddle the pins for $1.00 each if their candidate wins.

Affable, back-slapping Happy Chandler, Governor of Kentucky and the favorite-son candidate from that state, is passing out $500 bills to visitors at his headquarters on the 13th floor of the Sheraton Blackstone Hotel. The bills are backed by the Confederate States of America, though, and some delegates are commenting that Happy's chances aren't worth any more than the fake money.

An hour after Harry Truman came out for Harriman at a mammouth press conference in the Crystal Room of the Blackstone, Stevenson hastily called one in the lounge he maintains for delegates and visitors in the Conrad Hilton. Thousands of interested bystanders thronged in along with the press and as Stevenson pushed his way through the crowd one bystander asked, "who's that?"

"It's the reservation clerk," was the reply.

When cars bound for the all star game jammed Lake Shore Drive Friday night, one football fan pulled an end-around play and avoided the traffic. Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, ex-Secretary of Agriculture under Truman, rode to lake-side Soldiers Field in a speed boat. He met almost no interference on the water.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

The hatchet-faced dame tapped the monkey house manager indignantly on the shoulder. "Those wretched animals of yours appear to be playing dice! I demand that you break up the game at once!"

"Shucks," shrugged the keeper, "they're keeping strictly within the law, ma'am. They're only playing for peanuts."

On the old road from the desert to San Diego there is a very dangerous precipice. Harry Oliver says they had a warning sign posted there for years, but nobody fell over so they took it down.

The wheel of fortune, observes Bob Hope, spins quickly. "One day," he says, "You're in Beverly Hills sipping champagne and the next you're in Fresno stamping on grapes."

Immediate objectives of the organization, as set up and accepted in the by-laws, are: To develop a training program on a local level for the children in this area whose handicap is too serious to make them eligible for public schooling; to solicit volunteer help from individuals who have talents or background and time which might contribute to a specific phase of or to the general development of any or all of the children; to start a program for older children which might develop potentialities that could be used in modified occupational situations; to raise money for the program by bake and rummage sales, by solicitation and other enterprises, and to educate the public to accept the handicapped for what they are.

West Virginia's Democratic Delegation Is Divided Over Harriman-Stevenson

CHICAGO (AP) — Coal, especially the men who mine it, cropped up today as an added factor of confusion in figuring how West Virginia's delegation will vote for a Democratic presidential candidate.

An endorsement of Averell Harriman by way of Pennsylvania put two old West Virginia election partners, Sen. Matthew M. Neely and John L. Lewis, on opposite sides of the fence—on the surface at least.

Harriman was endorsed by Tom Kennedy of Hazelton, Pa., a vice president of the United Mine Workers presided over by Lewis.

Sources close to the senator said Harriman himself told Neely three weeks ago that Lewis was for him. And that the mine leader had authorized him to so inform Neely in hopes of gaining his support, too.

But Neely already had decided to string along with Stevenson, who polled more votes than President Eisenhower four years ago in West Virginia.

Neither the impending UMW and last Saturday's endorsement of Harriman by former President Truman caused any wavering in Neely's position. He maintained neither would cause Stevenson to lose either a majority of the West Virginia convention votes or the people's vote in November's election.

Confidants of Neely reported he is not too concerned over the UMW alignment with Harriman because it is no more than lukewarm. They claimed Lewis is not so much for Harriman as piqued at Stevenson whom he supported in 1952 and was not "even thanked."

They said Kennedy, who is a Pennsylvania delegate at large, and other UMW representatives at the convention were instructed to give tacit approval to Harriman, but not necessarily to actively work for his nomination.

In 1940, Lewis was miffed at Franklin D. Roosevelt and backed Wendell L. Willkie, the GOP nominee. West Virginia, which has 90,000 miners, still landed in the FDR column.

Neely and other Stevenson supporters still maintain they will have 16 votes for him on the first ballot Thursday night. No confirmation will be possible before then since the West Virginia delegation does not operate under the unit rule and there is no point in having it polled officially in advance.

Some Harriman supporters in the delegation are claiming as many as 10 votes on the first ballot. The Neely faction believes it is only eight.

A few delegates are planning to vote the first time around at least for Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. Their ultimate choice probably will be different and this makes the Stevenson-Harriman numerical forecast even cloudier.

Johnny Kucks Notches 16th Win Of Year

Mickey Has Perfect Night At Bat; Crowd Is Season's Record

Pass Million Mark

The crowd, attracted by Mantle's bat and the first post-spit appearance here by Bosocker Ted Williams, boosted Yankee Stadium attendance over the million mark for the 11th consecutive season. This season's total to date is 1,047,353, the 20th year the Yankees have pulled in more than a million.

While Williams played it straight (no spit, one hit), Mantle gave the crowd the payoff with a sweet-swinging, 370-foot blast in a three-run third inning against southpaw Mel (No-Hit) Parnell. Martin was on base, after doubling home the first run of the frame.

The home run put Mickey 13 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927.

Mickey Hitting .376

Mantle had a perfect night, added two singles and a walk while upping his league-leading batting average to .376 and pushing his top runs-batted-in total to 106.

The big third gave Johnny Kucks the cushion he needed for his 16th victory, but the young righthander who has lost six had to weather late troubles.

Martin's eighth home run gave the league leading Yankees two runs in the first. They added two in the eighth on Yogi Berra's double, Mantle's single, an error, a bunt single and a sacrifice fly against reliefer Dick Sisler. Then they made it a total rout with five in the eighth.

Both Boston runs came on homers, Billy Klaus' fifth of the year in the fourth and Jackie Jensen's 15th in the seventh frame.

Exchange And Newsies Meet For Lead Tonight

Hot Stovers Clash At Penn Ave. Field

A single game playoff to determine the pennant winner in the Hot Stove Baseball League will bring together the Exchange Club and the Times-News today at 8 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field, it was announced last night by Robert E. Pence, director of the City Recreation Department.

The Newsies and Exchange Club finished their regular schedules deadlocked for first place, each team winning 15 games and losing six. The Rotary Club finished in third place and B'nai B'rith was fourth.

The playoffs in which the four first division teams will participate will be staged Monday, Wednesday and Friday next week, Pence said.

A league rule which stipulates that a pitcher may participate in two games in one week was shelved for the playoffs. The new rule which applies to the playoffs restricts a pitcher to one game during a week. During the past season each team was allowed five pitchers while the limit was four in previous seasons.

In yesterday's finale, Stratton struck out 12 and closed out the season with a 7-2 record. The only hit credited to the Senators came in the first frame when "Dumplin' " Younger, first up, smashed a home run.

Dwight Pope was the "big gun" for the Indians. He batted in six runs by belting a homer with two on in the first inning and tripled with the bases loaded in the second frame.

Murry Dickson Defeats Braves

Bob Buhl Beaten By St. Louis, 6-2

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14 (AP)—Rocky Nelson's pinch-hit home run and the steady pitching of veteran Murry Dickson lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-2 victory over the league-leading Milwaukee Braves tonight.

The loss for Milwaukee, paired with a defeat for Brooklyn and a victory for Cincinnati, left the Braves with a two-game lead over the Dodgers and a three-game spread over the third-place Redlegs.

Nelson belted a 3-2 pitch to the right-field pavilion roof off starter and loser Bob Buhl in the sixth inning to put the Cards into a 3-2 lead that would have held up all the way. He scored behind Bobby Morgan.

It was the Rock's third homer, two as a pinch hitter, since coming to the Cardinals from Brooklyn about two weeks ago.

Buhl, fast-balling righthander for the Braves, suffered his fifth defeat against 14 victories. He was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The pint-sized Dickson held the Braves to nine hits, walked one and fanned six to pick up his ninth victory against a like number of defeats.

St. Louis scored first in the second on a walk, two infield outs and Ray Katt's double off the left-center field wall.

The Braves then tied it up in the fourth but managed to put across only one run on four hits.

Mays' Homer Sinks Brooks

Two-Run Blast Wins For New York, 3-1

BROOKLYN, Aug. 14 (AP)—Willie Mays' two-run homer in the eighth inning lifted the last place Giants into a 3-1 victory tonight over Brooklyn's second place Dodgers.

Despite the defeat, the Brooks remained within two games of first-place Milwaukee, beaten 6-2 at St. Louis, but their edge over third-place Cincinnati was trimmed to one game.

Willie's 20th homer of the season, blasted into the left-field seats off relief pitcher Clem Labine, capped a three-run frame for the Giants after the Dodgers had broken a scoreless duel between Sal Maglie and Jim Hearn in the seventh on a walk, a sacrifice and Junior Gilliam's double.

Maglie, facing his old mates for the first time, had held the Giants to four hits, walking two and striking out four, before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

The Giants wasted no time getting to Labine, Brooklyn's relief ace who now has a 9-6 record. Daryl Spencer led off the eighth with a single and Hank Thompson, batting for Hearn, got a double when his hit got away from Gino Cimoli, who had just been put into the lineup as a defensive move in right field.

Hearn, winning his fifth in 16 decisions, gave up five hits and five walks while holding the Dodgers to their lone run. Marv Grissom mopped up, getting Gilliam on a game-ending grounder with runners on third and first. Gilliam started in right for the Dodgers in place of Carl Furillo, the club's lone .300 hitter, who was bedded down with fever. Gilliam moved to left field in the eighth.

Johnson's Takes 2nd Half Title

Passed Ball Beats OG's In 1-0 Battle

A passed ball with the bases loaded in the fourth inning gave Johnson's Grocery a 1-0 decision over the Old Germans yesterday at Allegany Field and with the victory went the second half championship of the City Softball League for Manager Vernon Wharton's tossers.

Jack Long, Old Germans' pitcher, yielded only one hit and that was Glenn Wilson's single that led off the fourth frame. Johnny Horwath hit to "Brindle" Long but the latter's wild throw for a force out at second base enabled Wilson to advance to third. Ronnie Cage walked, filling the bases. With Jim Eckard at bat, Paul McGregor committed a passed ball and Wilson galloped home with the game's only run. Eckard drew a pass and the bases again were loaded. Then Long forced Donnie and "Bub" Frye to fly out while Cunningham went out on a grounder to the infield.

In gaining the decision over Long, Glenn Kauffman turned back the Old Germans with two hits, Jack Long's single in the 5th and Denny Shuck's base blow in the 7th. He failed to issue a walk, fanned two and wound up the regular campaign with a 13-6 record.

Long gave up five bases on balls.

Johnson's victory was the 11th against three losses while the Old G's own a 9-5 record. Each team has one more game on its schedule.

Baltimore Blanks Washington, 3-0

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Connie Johnson shut Washington on six singles tonight and struck out 11 as Baltimore defeated the Nationals 3-0.

Johnson went the route for the first time in his last nine starts while chalking up his fifth victory against seven defeats. He was locked in a tight pitching duel with Chuck Stobbs, who gave up only one run, in the second inning, until the Orioles rallied for two more in the eighth. Bob Chakales took over in that frame after Billy Gardner had doubled for the only extra base hit of the game, Tito Francona walked, and Dick Williams singled Gardner home.

When the ball went through outfielder Whitey Herzog, Francona also scored and Williams took second.

Johnny Kucks Notches 16th Win Of Year

Mickey Has Perfect Night At Bat; Crowd Is Season's Record

Pass Million Mark

The crowd, attracted by Mantle's bat and the first post-spit appearance here by Bosocker Ted Williams, boosted Yankee Stadium attendance over the million mark for the 11th consecutive season. This season's total to date is 1,047,353, the 20th year the Yankees have pulled in more than a million.

While Williams played it straight (no spit, one hit), Mantle gave the crowd the payoff with a sweet-swinging, 370-foot blast in a three-run third inning against southpaw Mel (No-Hit) Parnell. Martin was on base, after doubling home the first run of the frame.

The home run put Mickey 13 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927.

Mickey Hitting .376

Mantle had a perfect night, added two singles and a walk while upping his league-leading batting average to .376 and pushing his top runs-batted-in total to 106.

The big third gave Johnny Kucks the cushion he needed for his 16th victory, but the young righthander who has lost six had to weather late troubles.

Martin's eighth home run gave the league leading Yankees two runs in the first. They added two in the eighth on Yogi Berra's double, Mantle's single, an error, a bunt single and a sacrifice fly against reliefer Dick Sisler. Then they made it a total rout with five in the eighth.

Both Boston runs came on homers, Billy Klaus' fifth of the year in the fourth and Jackie Jensen's 15th in the seventh frame.

Cleveland's Al Smith had smacked a three-run homer in the eighth to tie the game, and Gene Woodling homered for Cleveland in the last of the 15th.

Exchange And Newsies Meet For Lead Tonight

Hot Stovers Clash At Penn Ave. Field

A single game playoff to determine the pennant winner in the Hot Stove Baseball League will bring together the Exchange Club and the Times-News today at 8 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field, it was announced last night by Robert E. Pence, director of the City Recreation Department.

The Newsies and Exchange Club finished their regular schedules deadlocked for first place, each team winning 15 games and losing six. The Rotary Club finished in third place and B'nai B'rith was fourth.

The playoffs in which the four first division teams will participate will be staged Monday, Wednesday and Friday next week, Pence said.

A league rule which stipulates that a pitcher may participate in two games in one week was shelved for the playoffs. The new rule which applies to the playoffs restricts a pitcher to one game during a week. During the past season each team was allowed five pitchers while the limit was four in previous seasons.

Manager "Whip" Kreitzburg's Indians threw the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League into a triple tie for first place on the last day of the season when they scalped the Senators yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 9-1 behind the one-hit performance of Jim Stratton.

The Senators wound up the race with a 10-5 record and so did the Braves and Athletics.

Today the Braves will battle the A's at Penn Avenue Field at 6 p.m., and the winning team will tackle the Senators Thursday at 6 at the same place to determine the first and second place nines for the inter-division playoffs which will be staged next Tuesday, Thursday and either Friday or Saturday. Plans for the games were announced last night by Robert E. Pence, director of the City Recreation Department.

In yesterday's finale, Stratton struck out 12 and closed out the season with a 7-2 record. The only hit credited to the Senators came in the first frame when "Dumplin' " Younger, first up, smashed a home run.

Dwight Pope was the "big gun" for the Indians. He batted in six runs by belting a homer with two on in the first inning and tripled with the bases loaded in the second frame.

CONNELSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 14—Argyle "Pete" Wilson, of Flintstone, Md., won the decision over Ronnie Meisel, of the Aliquippa (Pa.) CYO, in a three-round bout on an amateur boxing card tonight at Coker Stadium.

The show of 10 bouts was held in conjunction with Connellsville's sesqui-centennial celebration and Billy Carter, one-time lightweight boxer, was the promoter.

Wilson, who has won 11 of 16 bouts, tipped the scales at 165 pounds. Meisel weighed 172.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14 (AP)—Rocky Nelson's pinch-hit home run and the steady pitching of veteran Murry Dickson lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-2 victory over the league-leading Milwaukee Braves tonight.

The loss for Milwaukee, paired with a defeat for Brooklyn and a victory for Cincinnati, left the Braves with a two-game lead over the Dodgers and a three-game spread over the third-place Redlegs.

Nelson belted a 3-2 pitch to the right-field pavilion roof off starter and loser Bob Buhl in the sixth inning to put the Cards into a 3-2 lead that would have held up all the way. He scored behind Bobby Morgan.

It was the Rock's third homer, two as a pinch hitter, since coming to the Cardinals from Brooklyn about two weeks ago.

Buhl, fast-balling righthander for the Braves, suffered his fifth defeat against 14 victories. He was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The pint-sized Dickson held the Braves to nine hits, walked one and fanned six to pick up his ninth victory against a like number of defeats.

St. Louis scored first in the second on a walk, two infield outs and Ray Katt's double off the left-center field wall.

The Braves then tied it up in the fourth but managed to put across only one run on four hits.

Mays' Homer Sinks Brooks

Two-Run Blast Wins For New York, 3-1

BROOKLYN, Aug. 14 (AP)—Willie Mays' two-run homer in the eighth inning lifted the last place Giants into a 3-1 victory tonight over Brooklyn's second place Dodgers.

Despite the defeat, the Brooks remained within two games of first-place Milwaukee, beaten 6-2 at St. Louis, but their edge over third-place Cincinnati was trimmed to one game.

Willie's 20th homer of the season, blasted into the left-field seats off relief pitcher Clem Labine, capped a three-run frame for the Giants after the Dodgers had broken a scoreless duel between Sal Maglie and Jim Hearn in the seventh on a walk, a sacrifice and Junior Gilliam's double.

Maglie, facing his old mates for the first time, had held the Giants to four hits, walking two and striking out four, before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

The Giants wasted no time getting to Labine, Brooklyn's relief ace who now has a 9-6 record. Daryl Spencer led off the eighth with a single and Hank Thompson, batting for Hearn, got a double when his hit got away from Gino Cimoli, who had just been put into the lineup as a defensive move in right field.

Hearn, winning his fifth in 16 decisions, gave up five hits and five walks while holding the Dodgers to their lone run. Marv Grissom mopped up, getting Gilliam on a game-ending grounder with runners on third and first. Gilliam started in right for the Dodgers in place of Carl Furillo, the club's lone .300 hitter, who was bedded down with fever. Gilliam moved to left field in the eighth.

Johnson's Takes 2nd Half Title

A passed ball with the bases loaded in the fourth inning gave Johnson's Grocery a 1-0 decision over the Old Germans yesterday at Allegany Field and with the victory went the second half championship of the City Softball League for Manager Vernon Wharton's tossers.

Jack Long, Old Germans' pitcher, yielded only one hit and that was Glenn Wilson's single that led off the fourth frame. Johnny Horwath hit to "Brindle" Long but the latter's wild throw for a force out at second base enabled Wilson to advance to third. Ronnie Cage walked, filling the bases. With Jim Eckard at bat, Paul McGregor committed a passed ball and Wilson galloped home with the game's only run. Eckard drew a pass and the bases again were loaded. Then Long forced Donnie and "Bub" Frye to fly out while Cunningham went out on a grounder to the infield.

In gaining the decision over Long, Glenn Kauffman turned back the Old Germans with two hits, Jack Long's single in the 5th and Denny Shuck's base blow in the 7th. He failed to issue a walk, fanned two and wound up the regular campaign with a 13-6 record.

Long gave up five bases on balls.

Johnson's victory was the 11th against three losses while the Old G's own a 9-5 record. Each team has one more game on its schedule.

Baltimore Blanks Washington, 3-0

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Connie Johnson shut Washington on six singles tonight and struck out 11 as Baltimore defeated the Nationals 3-0.

Johnson went the route for the first time in his last nine starts while chalking up his fifth victory against seven defeats. He was locked in a tight pitching duel with Chuck Stobbs, who gave up only one run, in the second inning, until the Orioles rallied for two more in the eighth. Bob Chakales took over in that frame after Billy Gardner had doubled for the only extra base hit of the game. Tito Francona walked, and Dick Williams singled Gardner home.

When the ball went through outfielder Whitey Herzog, Francona also scored and Williams took second.

Nuxhall Chalks Up 8th Win Of Season

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Wally Post unloaded his 22nd home run of the campaign today to power pennant-contending Cincinnati to a 2-0 decision over the Chicago Cubs and end a string of three losses hung on the Redlegs by pace setting Milwaukee.

Post's blast into the left centerfield bleachers of Wrigley Field came in the fourth inning and marred an otherwise fine six-hit pitching chore for the Cubs' 21-year-old rookie, Don Kaiser. It was his sixth setback against three victories.

Joe Nuxhall was in to the finish for his second shutout of the season. He boosted his record to 8-8 with a neat five-hit job, striking out four, serving only one walk and only once permitting a Cub to reach third.

That was the sixth inning when Monte Irvin singled and got only to third on Jim King's double into the right field corner.

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN Mickey Mantle slammed his 41st home run of the season against Baltimore in Yankee Stadium on Sunday it was his 21st round-tripper at the New York park. He has hit 20 four-baggers in five of the seven other parks in the league. Baltimore and Boston are the only places in which he has failed to hit for the circuit thus far.

This should answer the question, "Isn't it true that Mantle has hit a majority of his homers at Yankee Stadium?" which is frequently asked by fans.

On the road Mickey has hit seven homers in Detroit, six in Cleveland, four in Washington, two in Chicago and one in Kansas City. At New York he has hit five against Kansas City, four against Washington, three each against Cleveland, Detroit and Boston, two against Baltimore and one against Chicago.

In spite of the fact that Detroit has won 10 of 18 games from New York, Mickey has belted Tiger hurlers for 10 homers. Pitchers of Cleveland, a top contender, have yielded nine four-baggers to the Yankee slugger, now in his sixth year in the majors at the age of 24.

THE FACT that Mantle is running ahead of Babe Ruth's record year of 1927 when the Bambino hit 60 homers is interesting at this time but we won't predict that Mickey will equal or better it because we've seen many other seasoned veterans try but fail in the closing weeks of the campaign when the pressure really is on.

Ruth hit 50 or more homers four times during his career. Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Foxx got as high as 58, "Hack" Wilson poled 56 and Ralph Kiner's best effort was 54.

However, we'd like to mention the fact that the Babe hit 32 homers on the road and 28 at home during his record-breaking season. He smashed three or more in every one of the other seven parks in the league that year, getting eight in Boston, five in Philadelphia, four each in Washington, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland and three in Chicago. The Babe hit his last eleven at Yankee Stadium for his all-time high.

Ruth tagged Lefty Grove for No. 57 at New York on Sept. 27. That was among the nine homers the Babe hit at the expense of Philadelphia that year. He belted 11 against Boston, nine each against St. Louis and Cleveland, eight against Detroit and Washington and six against Chicago.

It was in 1927 the Yankees went 129 games before they were shut out, a new major league record. Then Lefty Grove was the only pitcher to turn the trick against the New Yorkers, beating them 1-0 on September 3.

GARY WOLFORD, former Cumberland Dapper Dan League and Hot Stove League star, did exceptionally well in the Prep League Little World Series which ended Saturday at Munhall, Pa., with Waltham, Mass., defeating Hagerstown for the title, 6-0.

Wolford batted an even .300 as Hagerstown catcher and was the team's top run producer with five to his credit. Gary, however, was injured in the final game and had to be removed after suffering bruised ribs.

There were eight teams in the tourney at Munhall where the Prep League had its origin.

JOHN STRICKLAND holds the distinction of being the winningest pitcher in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League for the 1956 season with a 9-2 record.

The ace of Manager Dale Broadwater's Cresaptown Lions, pennant winning aggregation in the eight club circuit, beat Midland 12-4 and 20-3, Barton 8-1 and 7-0, Lonaconing 10-8, Ellerslie 5-1 and 10-8, Mt. Savage 2-1 and Corriganville 13-1.

Both of the games he lost were by the margin of a single run, Lonaconing winning 3-2 while Ellerslie copped a 4-3 decision.

John Hinds, also of Cresaptown, had the highest winning percentage in the league, bagging five and losing none. Bobby Green and Tommy Carter of Mt. Savage were 3-0 for the season. Hurlers with 2-0 marks were Jim Getty, Lonaconing; Tommy Deffenbaugh, Mt. Savage and Rich Lybarger, Ellerslie.

Dennis Clem, Cresaptown, won three and lost one; Roger Cook, Ellerslie, and Roger Wilson, Lonaconing, were 5-2 each and John Trenton of LaVale notched six wins against three losses.

Mt. Savage won the pennant and playoffs in 1954, the first year of the league. Last season Barton captured the pennant and Piedmont emerged the winner in the playoffs.

Ellerslie, Mt. Savage and Lonaconing are the teams currently engaged in the playoffs.

Hal Smith Placed On Waiver List

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Hal Smith, 25-year-old catcher obtained in the 18-player deal with the New York Yankees in November, 1954, was placed on waivers today by the Baltimore Orioles.

Manager Paul Richards designated Smith "a player to be disposed of within the next 10 days" so as to make immediate room on the roster for Bob Boyd, who has been out since May 20 with a fractured elbow. After being so designated, Smith cannot be removed from the waiver list under baseball law.

Outdoor Club Bags Pennant In RC Circuit

The Outdoor Club won the regular season championship in the Rocking Chair Softball League by edging Celanese yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 2-1.

Charley Day tossed a three-hitter for the pennant winners who wound up the regular season with a 17-7 record. He also won his own game in the fifth inning when his sacrifice fly scored George Evans with the deciding marker after the latter had doubled and moved to third on a wild pitch.

In the third inning, Day singled, advanced to second on Ted Durbin's sacrifice, took third as Elliott rolled out and scored on Manager Cecil Grimes' timely single.

Day had a one-hitter going into the final frame when two safeties scored the Silkmen's lone tally.

Fielding stars were "Butch" Johnson, who turned in a running catch in left field, Van Johnson who excelled at third base for the Outdoor Club and "Windy" Jones, short fielder of Celanese. Evans rapped a double and single for the victors.

Outdoor Club concluded its regular schedule with a five-game winning streak. It marked the second time in three years that O.D.C. had won the league pennant. Score:

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (INS)—There always has been a strange affinity among the sports world, the stage and the underworld.

From time immemorial they have gone hand in hand.

Why? One reason perhaps is that they have not only intermingled but at times their activities have overlapped.

Heavyweight champion fighters and wrestlers have also tried their hand on the stage. John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett and Bill Muldoon were notable examples and in later days Maxie Rosenbloom and Max Baer have fancied themselves as artists of note. Oh, well, if you insist, clowns.

Jack Dempsey and other fighters have married actresses and there probably never was a heavyweight title fight held at which the ladies of the stage were not present in large numbers.

In our younger days we often spotted noted members of the turf and the diamond and the gambling fraternity hanging around stage doors waiting for some chorine.

One of our earliest and most vivid recollections of a sports celebrity was one day when our dad pointed out to us the great Tod Sloan who had only a few days before ridden Ballyhoo Boy to victory in the Belmont Futurity of 1900.

Strange what a lasting impression can be made on a nine-year-old boy. I can still see Sloan and I can envision his small pointed shoes, his fancy vest, derby hat and big cigar.

Many years later in reminiscing dad recalled that the big strapping blonde who towered over Sloan that day was not his wife but a lovely lady from the chorus of a Broadway musical hit.

Diamond Jim Brady was a great patron of the turf and the stage and he and Lillian Langry, the Jersey Lily of stage fame, placed many a bet on the galloping ponies and the galloping dominoes in the gambling casino at Saratoga.

And that reminds us that the Saratoga track, over which so much sentimental mush is written these days, was founded by John Morissey, a fighter who became a millionaire and a member of the state legislature.

Turkey Mike Donlin, Joe DiMaggio and other heroes of the diamond married actresses but not always with the greatest success.

If you think the aforementioned affinity no longer exists you can accompany us any day and satisfy yourself that it does.

Bettor Collects $5,845 On Double

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Supporters of Shy Deb in the first race received the biggest returns today in the Washington Park meeting—$262.60 for a $2 win ticket and $1,169 for a daily double.

The other half of the daily double was Su-Jay who won the second race and paid backers $6.40 for $2.

One unidentified bettor collected $5,845 for a $10 daily double ticket on the winning combination. There were 45 tickets sold at $2 and three at $5.

Nuxhall Chalks Up 8th Win Of Season

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Wally Post unloaded his 22nd home run of the campaign today to power pennant-contending Cincinnati to a 2-0 decision over the Chicago Cubs and end a string of three losses hung on the Redlegs by pace setting Milwaukee.

Post's blast into the left centerfield bleachers of Wrigley Field came in the fourth inning and marred an otherwise fine six-hit pitching chore for the Cubs' 21-year-old rookie, Don Kaiser. It was his sixth setback against three victories.

Joe Nuxhall was in to the finish for his second shutout of the season. He boosted his record to 8-8 with a neat five-hit job, striking out four, serving only one walk and only once permitting a Cub to reach third.

That was the sixth inning when Monte Irvin singled and got only to third on Jim King's double into the right field corner.

The Dope On Mickey
21 At Home, 20 Away

Mr. Grove Stops 'Em
Strickland Was 9-2

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN Mickey Mantle slammed his 41st home run of the season against Baltimore in Yankee Stadium on Sunday it was his 21st round-tripper at the New York park. He has hit 20 four-baggers in five of the seven other parks in the league. Baltimore and Boston are the only places in which he has failed to hit for the circuit thus far.

This should answer the question, "Isn't it true that Mantle has hit a majority of his homers at Yankee Stadium?" which is frequently asked by fans.

On the road Mickey has hit seven homers in Detroit, six in Cleveland, four in Washington, two in Chicago and one in Kansas City. At New York he has hit five against Kansas City, four against Washington, three each against Cleveland, Detroit and Boston, two against Baltimore and one against Chicago.

In spite of the fact that Detroit has won 10 of 18 games from New York, Mickey has belted Tiger hurlers for 10 homers. Pitchers of Cleveland, a top contender, have yielded nine four-baggers to the Yankee slugger, now in his sixth year in the majors at the age of 24.

No.	Date		Against
1-2	April	17	Washington	(A)
3	April	20	Boston	(H)
4	April	21	Boston	(H)
5	May	1	Detroit	(H)
6	May	2	Detroit	(H)
7	May	3	Kansas City	(H)
8-9	May	5	Kansas City	(H)
10	May	8	Cleveland	(H)
11	May	10	Cleveland	(H)
12	May	14	Cleveland	(A)
13	May	16	Cleveland	(A)
14-15	May	18	Chicago	(A)
16	May	21	Kansas City	(A)
17	May	24	Detroit	(A)
18	May	29	Boston	(H)
19	May	30	Washington	(H)
20	May	30	Washington	(H)
21	June	5	Kansas City	(H)
22	June	14	Chicago	(H)
23	June	15	Cleveland	(A)
24	June	16	Cleveland	(A)
25	June	18	Detroit	(A)
26-27	June	20	Detroit	(A)
28-29	July	1	Washington	(H)
30	July	14	Cleveland	(H)
31	July	18	Detroit	(H)
32	July	22	Kansas City	(H)
33-34	July	30	Cleveland	(A)
35-36	Aug.	4	Detroit	(A)
37	Aug.	5	Detroit	(A)

39	Aug.	9	Washington	(A)
40	Aug.	11	Baltimore	(H)
41	Aug.	12	Baltimore	(H)

THE FACT that Mantle is running ahead of Babe Ruth's record year of 1927 when the Bambino hit 60 homers is interesting at this time but we won't predict that Mickey will equal or better it because we've seen many other seasoned veterans try but fail in the closing weeks of the campaign when the pressure really is on.

Ruth hit 50 or more homers four times during his career. Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Foxx got as high as 58, "Hack" Wilson poled 56 and Ralph Kiner's best effort was 54.

However, we'd like to mention the fact that the Babe hit 32 homers on the road and 28 at home during his record-breaking season. He smashed three or more in every one of the other seven parks in the league that year, getting eight in Boston, five in Philadelphia, four each in Washington, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland and three in Chicago. The Babe hit his last eleven at Yankee Stadium for his all-time high.

Ruth tagged Lefty Grove for No. 57 at New York on Sept. 27. That was among the nine homers the Babe hit at the expense of Philadelphia that year. He belted 11 against Boston, nine each against St. Louis and Cleveland, eight against Detroit and Washington and six against Chicago.

It was in 1927 the Yankees went 129 games before they were shut out, a new major league record. Then Lefty Grove was the only pitcher to turn the trick against the New Yorkers, beating them 1-0 on September 3.

GARY WOLFORD, former Cumberland Dapper Dan League and Hot Stove League star, did exceptionally well in the Prep League Little World Series which ended Saturday at Munhall, Pa., with Waltham, Mass., defeating Hagerstown for the title, 6-0.

Wolford batted an even .300 as Hagerstown catcher and was the team's top run producer with five to his credit. Gary, however, was injured in the final game and had to be removed after suffering bruised ribs.

There were eight teams in the tourney at Munhall where the Prep League had its origin.

JOHN STRICKLAND holds the distinction of being the winningest pitcher in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League for the 1956 season with a 9-2 record.

The ace of Manager Dale Broadwater's Cresaptown Lions, pennant winning aggregation in the eight club circuit, beat Midland 12-4 and 20-3, Barton 8-1 and 7-0, Lonaconing 10-8, Ellerslie 5-1 and 10-8, Mt. Savage 2-1 and Corriganville 13-1.

Both of the games he lost were by the margin of a single run, Lonaconing winning 3-2 while Ellerslie copped a 4-3 decision.

John Hinds, also of Cresaptown, had the highest winning percentage in the league, bagging five and losing none. Bobby Green and Tommy Carter of Mt. Savage were 3-0 for the season. Hurlers with 2-0 marks were Jim Getty, Lonaconing; Tommy Deffenbaugh, Mt. Savage and Rich Lybarger, Ellerslie.

Dennis Clem, Cresaptown, won three and lost one; Roger Cook, Ellerslie, and Roger Wilson, Lonaconing, were 5-2 each and John Trenton of LaVale notched six wins against three losses.

Mt. Savage won the pennant and playoffs in 1954, the first year of the league. Last season Barton captured the pennant and Piedmont emerged the winner in the playoffs.

Ellerslie, Mt. Savage and Lonaconing are the teams currently engaged in the playoffs.

New York's next visit to Washington will be Friday, August 31 and Saturday, Sept. 1 for night games and a day game on Sunday, Sept. 2.

Celebrity Annexes 2nd Straight Game In Kelly Playoffs

Celebrity made it two in a row in the playoffs for the Kelly-Springfield Softball League championship by beating the Safe Tracs yesterday at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 7-6 in nine innings.

Loar, who paced the winners at the plate with three hits in five trips, singled home the tying and deciding runs in the bottom of the 9th frame. John Neder hit a two-run homer for the winners.

Hal Smith Placed On Waiver List

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Hal Smith, 25-year-old catcher obtained in the 18-player deal with the New York Yankees in November, 1954, was placed on waivers today by the Baltimore Orioles.

Manager Paul Richards designated Smith "a player to be disposed of within the next 10 days" so as to make immediate room on the roster for Bob Boyd, who has been out since May 20 with a fractured elbow. After being so designated, Smith cannot be removed from the waiver list under baseball law.

Outdoor Club Bags Pennant In RC Circuit

The Outdoor Club won the regular season championship in the Rocking Chair Softball League by edging Celanese yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 2-1.

Charley Day tossed a three-hitter for the pennant winners who wound up the regular season with a 17-7 record. He also won his own game in the fifth inning when his sacrifice fly scored George Evans with the deciding marker after the latter had doubled and moved to third on a wild pitch.

In the third inning, Day singled, advanced to second on Ted Durbin's sacrifice, took third as Elliott rolled out and scored on Manager Cecil Grimes' timely single.

Fielding stars were "Butch" Johnson, who turned in a running catch in left field, Van Johnson who excelled at third base for the Outdoor Club and "Windy" Jones, short fielder of Celanese. Evans rapped a double and single for the victors.

Outdoor Club concluded its regular schedule with a five-game winning streak. It marked the second time in three years that O.D.C. had won the league pennant. Score:

Swaps To Race In Handicap At Atlantic City

$100,000 U.N. Turf Event Set Sept. 15

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 14 (AP) — Trainer Meshach Tenney quickly accepted today an invitation to start Rex Ellsworth's California-bred Swaps in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap on the Atlantic City turf course Sept. 15.

Swaps had been given top weight of 130 pounds for the race, one more than for Nashua, the Leslie Combs II syndicate colt. Nashua, who was here for the $100,000 Invitational Atlantic City Handicap last Saturday, was withdrawn shortly before the race due to an attack of colic.

Hagerstown Opens Race Meet Today

Wagering Average May Hit $400,000

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 14 (AP) — Hagerstown's half-mile track opens a 12-day meeting tomorrow, launching Maryland's 60-day minor track racing season.

After the meeting here, the horses and jockeys shift to Timonium, Cumberland, Bel Air and Marlboro.

The meeting will be the longest in Hagerstown track's history. The State added two days to the schedules of the five half-mile tracks, over the previous high of 10 days.

The track won't have any competition throughout the run. Last year it ran its first four days against Charles Town. This year, however, the neighboring West Virginia track wound up its meeting today.

Swoon's Son And Needles Enter Derby

Seven May Start In Chicago Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—A field of seven, including Needles and Swoon's Son, was considered definite today for the $100,000 added American Derby at Washington Park Saturday.

Needles, popular stretch-running son of Ponder owned by Dudley and Heath Stable, will be out to defend his claim for the 3-year-old championship. The Kentucky Derby and Belmont stakes winner will be ridden by Dave Erb, who chose the mount over E. Gay Drake's Swoon's Son.

The big question for Saturday's 46th running of the American Derby over the grass seems to be if Swoon's Son can go all-out for the 1 3-16 miles distance.

THE '56 V-8 CHEVROLET

Has MORE Of Everything You Want At the Price You Want to Pay!

You just don't get the advantages listed below in any other V8 built today. And there's something else you miss out on in the others. It's the pure pleasure of bossing around a car with Chevy's rapid-fire reflexes—plus the solid feeling of stability you have at the wheel. Come in, try it and discover what a truly wonderful car the '56 Chevrolet is!

- Needs only four quarts of oil! Most other V8's require five quarts or more! Because of Chevy's super-efficient, low friction V8 design you save on every oil change.
- Highest horsepower per pound! A Chevrolet V8 pours out more power per pound of engine weight than any other V8 going. That not only means livelier performance . . . it's a good indication of its efficiency and precision.
- Shortest stroke in its field . . . ultra high compression! The stroke is actually smaller than the bore! The result is less piston travel and less friction. Another reason for Chevy's red-hot V8 performance is ultra high compression . . . as high as 9.25 to 1! Horsepower up to 225, too!

Swaps To Race In Handicap At Atlantic City

$100,000 U.N. Turf Event Set Sept. 15

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 14 (AP) — Trainer Meshach Tenney quickly accepted today an invitation to start Rex Ellsworth's California-bred Swaps in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap on the Atlantic City turf course Sept. 15.

This was the first acceptance for the mile and three-sixteenths grass course race, weights for which were issued yesterday by handicapper James P. Ross, Jr.

Swaps had been given top weight of 130 pounds for the race, one more than for Nashua, the Leslie Combs II syndicate colt. Nashua, who was here for the $100,000 Invitational Atlantic City Handicap last Saturday, was withdrawn shortly before the race due to an attack of colic.

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons doesn't plan to send Mr. Millions to Atlantic City, as Nashua never has started on the grass.

Hagerstown Opens Race Meet Today

Wagering Average May Hit $400,000

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 14 (AP) — Hagerstown's half-mile track opens a 12-day meeting tomorrow, launching Maryland's 60-day minor track racing season.

After the meeting here, the horses and jockeys shift to Timonium, Cumberland, Bel Air and Marlboro.

The meeting will be the longest in Hagerstown track's history. The State added two days to the schedules of the five half-mile tracks, over the previous high of 10 days.

The track won't have any competition throughout the run. Last year it ran its first four days against Charles Town. This year, however, the neighboring West Virginia track wound up its meeting today.

Swoon's Son And Needles Enter Derby

Seven May Start In Chicago Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—A field of seven, including Needles and Swoon's Son, was considered definite today for the $100,000 added American Derby at Washington Park Saturday.

Needles, popular stretch-running son of Ponder owned by Dudley and Heath Stable, will be out to defend his claim for the 3-year-old championship. The Kentucky Derby and Belmont stakes winner will be ridden by Dave Erb, who chose the mount over E. Gay Drake's Swoon's Son.

Eddie Arcaro will be aboard Swoon's Son, winner of five straight.

The big question for Saturday's 46th running of the American Derby over the grass seems to be if Swoon's Son can go all-out for the 1 3-16 miles distance.

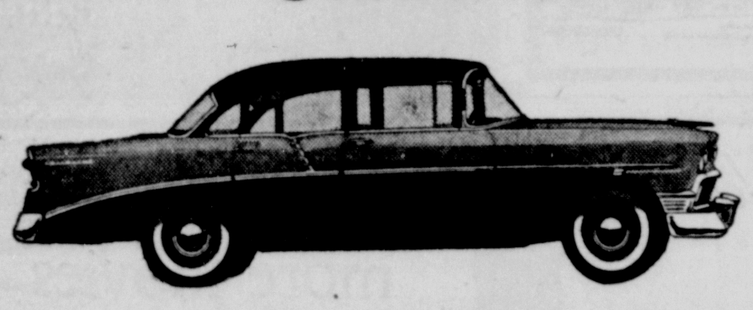
THE '56 V-8 CHEVROLET



Has MORE Of Everything You Want At the Price You Want to Pay!

You just don't get the advantages listed below in any other V8 built today. And there's something else you miss out on in the others. It's the pure pleasure of bossing around a car with Chevy's rapid-fire reflexes—plus the solid feeling of stability you have at the wheel. Come in, try it and discover what a truly wonderful car the '56 Chevrolet is!

- Needs only four quarts of oil! Most other V8's require five quarts or more! Because of Chevy's super-efficient, low friction V8 design you save on every oil change.
- Highest horsepower per pound! A Chevrolet V8 pours out more power per pound of engine weight than any other V8 going. That not only means livelier performance . . . it's a good indication of its efficiency and precision.
- Shortest stroke in its field . . . ultra high compression! The stroke is actually smaller than the bore! The result is less piston travel and less friction. Another reason for Chevy's red-hot V8 performance is ultra high compression . . . as high as 9.25 to 1! Horsepower up to 225, too!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14 (INS) — Calypso and folk singer Harry Belafonte, the rage of the teenagers who aren't raging for Elvis Presley, makes his debut as composer of a motion picture symphonic score for "Trooper Hook," the Joel McCrea-Barbara Stanwyck movie.

Producer Sol B. Fielding says that in addition to writing the score, Belafonte will compose, sing and subsequently record a minimum of three songs for the picture.

It isn't the first association of the singer and producer. The latter was responsible for Belafonte's movie acting debut three years ago in "Bright Road" at MGM. It won a Christopher Award. "Trooper Hook" will be released through United Artists.

The S. S. United States, docking in New York today, brings Dino de Laurentiis and his wife, Silvana Mangano, to this country for the premiere of "War and Peace." The Italian producer and his actress wife plan a three weeks visit including a trip to Hollywood.

Main purpose of the trip to the coast is to line up two American male stars to support Silvana in "The Seawall," de Laurentiis' next, which, like "War and Peace," will be released by Paramount.

With the exception of a 24-hour stopover a few years ago, this is the lovely Mangano's first visit to Hollywood.

After six weeks in Europe, beautiful Cyd Charisse is home and ready to start rehearsals with Fred Astaire for "Silk Stockings" on Wednesday.

Cyd laughed, "You have to come home to Hollywood to get away from Hollywood if you know what I mean. There are more stars working and vacationing abroad than there are here."

One night, Cyd and Tony Martin (he's still in London finishing up his picture with Vera-Ellen) went to the theatre and a little girl fan asked them to sign her white pocketbook. "My autograph book's all used up" the youngster explained.

Good pictures are beginning to pile up for Jean Simmons who has been engrossed with her own private production of the Stewart Granger bambino. MGM producer Charlie Schnee has bought "Until They Sail," a James Michener ("Tales of the South Pacific" author) story for Jean.

Rory Calhoun and Dolores Donlon are rehearsing a personal appearance skit for a tour with their movie, "Flight to Hong Kong." And, Rory and wife Lita Baron entertained with a Spanish costume party celebrating his birthday Saturday night.

Lovely Elisabeth Mueller postcards from Switzerland that the power of just one American-made movie is terrific in her home country. She says, "Since I appeared in 'The Power and the Prize' with Bob Taylor, even my parents are treating me like a movie star."

Lady Nora Docker told Columbia representatives she was "flattered" by the offer to tour America in a gold plated car plugging "Solid Gold Cadillac." But it isn't convenient for her to leave London at this time. British reporters tip that her ladyship isn't finished with her private battle with the Birmingham Small Arms Company which recently removed her husband from the chairmanship.

Former Pittsburgh Bonus Pitcher Hurt In Highway Mishap

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14 (AP)—Paul Martin, 24-year-old bonus pitcher who quit the Pittsburgh Pirates earlier this year, was in serious condition at Mercy Hospital today following an auto crash.

State Police said Martin's car swerved out of control and crashed last night about 30 miles south of Pittsburgh. Two passengers also were hurt, not seriously.

Martin, a native of Fayette City, suffered severe face and head injuries. The Pirates signed him for a reported $30,000 in 1955 but he developed arm trouble and quit.

Francona To Wed

ABERDEEN, S. D., Aug. 14 (AP)—John (Tito) Francona, rookie outfielder-first baseman of the Baltimore Orioles, will marry Miss Roberta Jackson, Miss Aberdeen for 1956, in November.

The announcement was made today by the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Jackson.

Francona, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Carmon Francona of New Brighton, Pa., was a member of the Northern League Aberdeen Pheasants in 1953.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Start Good Eating Habits Early

Every mother wants to spare her daughter the anguish of complexion blemishing and overweight as she approaches her teens. Such troubles seriously hold back her budding charm and may have an effect that lasts a long time. Now, while you have full supervision of her eating habits, mother, guide them carefully. Help her to acquire a taste for what's good for her as a safeguard for the future.

Here's an outline of a day's food requirements for a little girl, including the afternoon snack she really needs while she is growing so fast. It avoids the sweets and starches she can't take in excessive amounts if skin and figure difficulties are to be avoided:

Breakfast: Half grapefruit or unsweetened juice; 2 slices whole wheat or dark bread and butter; 2 eggs scrambled in milk; glass of milk.

Lunch: Cup of cottage cheese mixed with fresh fruit, or sliced meat; carrot and celery sticks stuffed with American cheese; raw apple or pear; graham crackers; milk.

This, you will say at a glance, doesn't include a lot of foods she already is fond of. Unfortunately, a child's taste for the wrong foods in too large amounts seems to grow toward teen time, and that's just why the problem should be tackled now. Don't make an issue of it, but simply offer her the right foods in the righ' amounts every day and in a surprisingly short time, her eating habits will turn into the properly healthful channels.

The Kids Try It, Too

There's hardly a man alive who has not had a singing commercial sung at him by his offspring but you may just possibly have been spared anything more hectic than that. Not all parents have, though. Children are of a strongly experimental nature and the moment the announcer shows how easy it is to shave a peach with an electric shaver, Junior is off to the bathroom to try it himself.

The Youth Research Institute, which prowls among the three-to-ten-year-old set to find out how television is unbalancing its little collective mind, rapidly discovered that that age bracket is a pushover for the demonstration commercial. Endless peaches have been denuded by electric shavers since that particular commercial first went on the air which was a good long time ago. The amount of time wasted by exasperated papas cleaning peach fuzz out of their electric shavers is inestimable. A good many of the moppets put shaving cream on the peaches which complicates the cleaning problem even further.

It's enough—or it should be enough—to give any manufacturer pause. For instance, when the band aid people started showing how a band aid could lift an egg out of a pot of water, uncounted little ones pattered off to the kitchen to try it for themselves. As far as is known, none of the little darlings fell into the pot and drowned but there were some messy kitchens.

Water has a special fascination not only for children but for the people who dream up commercials. You must all have seen that one where an apple suspended in a paper napkin is dunked in water to show how strong the napkin is. I have gone through life without any special desire to dunk an apple in water wrapped in a paper napkin, and, to this day, I wouldn't care if the napkin broke or not.

But the kids don't reason that way. The utility of a napkin is judged solely by whether you can dip it in water without losing the apple. And don't think a great many small fry didn't try it. Another divertissement was provided by the non-smear lipstick people. All over the country kids decided to see whether mommy's lipstick was smear or non-smear and this activity, of course, can disrupt a girl's dressing table to say nothing of smearing up any number of towels.

Advertisers just don't realize the amount of havoc they create in the nursery every time they demonstrate anything on TV. Lester Rand, president of Youth Research Institute, points out that: "Beer manufacturers spent the summer of '54 deluging the air waves with the intelligence that beer contained fewer calories than some soft drinks." Straightaway, kids, who had never worried their little skulls about a calorie in their lives before, became diet conscious and wouldn't swallow anything until they'd ask about the caloric content.

"Dogs are at last having their day," Rand says. "Children now insist that Fido be nourished according to the announcer's dictum, they being more concerned with his proper food consumption than they are with their own." All this because of television.

So far there are no recorded instances of children trying out the power steering with one finger, as suggested in the TV commercials but I shouldn't be at all surprised if that, too, is around the corner. Don't leave the keys in the car, fellows.

While on the subject of acting, a whole new field is opening up in live and filmed commercials which use only part of the anatomy. I'm particularly fascinated by the beer commercials. There's a shot of a plate of food and presently a disembodied hand places a glass next to it and fills the glass with beer. There doesn't seem to be any stomach connected with the hand and I keep wondering what the hands do with the beer.

There's a lot of this—in case your hands are interested in an acting career—hands opening up refrigerators, waxing furniture, or spreading cheese. They're all spotlessly clean, rather languid hands but I have yet to see a pair of hands that turned in a really memorable performance. Pay is only moderate. For the use of your hands on a half-hour network show: $39.50.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Five of hearts.

The nation's foremost father and son team is back in action again after an interruption for military service. James Jacoby, just discharged from the army, has another semester at Notre Dame university to complete his education, but it is quite apparent from the manner in which he conducted himself at the recent Cotton Belt Regional tournament that his education at the card table has already been completed. Paired with his father, Oswald Jacoby, he drove to an impressive victory in the Men's Pair championship at Memphis, Tenn.

A daring performance in both the bidding and the play netted the ex-GI an unusual top score in the hand shown today. The elder Jacoby had to scrape up all the odds and ends to get under the wire for his opening bid, but he decided in view of the vulnerability that it might be unsafe to act at all if he didn't "climb aboard" early. South overcalled with one spade and James decided to make a penalty double. This was decidedly risky procedure because if partner had any support for hearts, a vulnerable game could easily be missed to compensate for which the defense would have to register a four trick set, not an easy goal to achieve at this level.

His choice of opening lead was spectacular. Not anxious to obtain ruffs, but mindful of putting a dent in declarer's trumps, West led a heart. Jacoby pere won with the ace and returned the queen. Declarer ruffed and led a low club to dummy's ten. On a diamond lead East rose with the ace and returned a trump. West cashed the ten, king and ace of trumps, leaving declarer with the queen. Another heart lead drove out declarer's last trump and West could spread his hand for a 700 point set, top score, inasmuch as no slam was recorded by any East-West pair.

Paired with his father, Oswald Jacoby, he drove to an impressive victory in the Men's Pair championship at Memphis, Tenn.

A daring performance in both the bidding and the play netted the ex-GI an unusual top score in the hand shown today. The elder Jacoby had to scrape up all the odds and ends to get under the wire for his opening bid, but he decided in view of the vulnerability that it might be unsafe to act at all if he didn't "climb aboard" early. South overcalled with one spade and James decided to make a penalty double. This was decidedly risky procedure because if partner had any support for hearts, a vulnerable game could easily be missed to compensate for which the defense would have to register a four trick set, not an easy goal to achieve at this level.

His choice of opening lead was spectacular. Not anxious to obtain ruffs, but mindful of putting a dent in declarer's trumps, West led a heart. Jacoby pere won with the ace and returned the queen. Declarer ruffed and led a low club to dummy's ten. On a diamond lead East rose with the ace and returned a trump. West cashed the ten, king and ace of trumps, leaving declarer with the queen. Another heart lead drove out declarer's last trump and West could spread his hand for a 700 point set, top score, inasmuch as no slam was recorded by any East-West pair.

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

A H B'Z K D G K Z G H Z U K A G V H E S P
G J K Z K O K G H U K G J D A G H O K
D S H A K N A L D Z D P N I K — B H K G J K .

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear children who died between August 1 to August 15, 1926.
A cherished memory, sweet and true.
With the greatest love we think of you.
Gone are the faces we loved so dear.
Silent are the voices we loved to hear.
'Tis sad and true we wonder why
The best is always the first to die.
Sadly missed by Father and Mother
and Mrs. Wm. J. Green.

In loving memory of our father, George Albert Eyler, who passed away 25 years ago, August 15, 1931.
You're not forgotten Father dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
His children, Virginia, Margaret, Elizabeth, Albert, Marie, Maryland and Warren

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind and sympathetic during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Mr. C. H. Fisher. We especially wish to thank Rev. B. F. Hartman, those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.
MRS. C. H. FISHER AND FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear children who died between August 1 to August 15, 1926.
A cherished memory, sweet and true.
With the greatest love we think of you.
Gone are the faces we loved so dear.
Silent are the voices we loved to hear.
'Tis sad and true we wonder why
The best is always the first to die.
Sadly missed by Father and Mother and Brothers and Sisters of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Green.

In loving memory of our father, George Albert Eyler, who passed away 25 years ago, August 15, 1931.
You're not forgotten Father dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory last,

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind and sympathetic during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Mr. C. H. Fisher. We especially wish to thank Rev. B. F. Hartman, those who sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.
MRS. C. H. FISHER AND FAMILY

Stock Market Moderately Higher In Quiet Session

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP) — The stock market pushed higher in quiet trading today although there was a liberal share of small losers.

Leading issues turned higher soon after the opening and held steady through the session. Volume picked up toward the close and a renewed advance raised oils, aircrafts and coppers narrowly.

The advance failed to recover all the ground lost in a mild decline yesterday. Gulf Oil, which lost 4⅝ in the previous session, was again heavily traded and picked up 2 points to close at 129¾. Royal Dutch was also favored and more than made up its small loss of yesterday with a gain of 2⅝.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $189.10, with industrials up $2.20, and rails and utilities both down 10 cents.

Of 1,139 issues traded, 465 advanced and 40 declined. However, new lows outnumbered new highs, 35 to 31.

Boeing was the most active issue of the day, with 28,700 shares traded. It advanced 2⅞ to 53⅜ following news that the Air Force had awarded the company two contracts totaling more than 576 million dollars.

Police Question Two In Death Of Harris

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP) —Police held two men for questioning today in the death of Roscoe Windom Harris, 65, brother-in-law of Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations undersecretary.

Detectives Joseph Stanczak and Robert R. Caldwell said robbery apparently was the motive for an attack upon Harris in his second floor real estate office. His body, bound with toweling, was found about noon yesterday by his wife Ruth, a sister of the U. N. official. Harris apparently had strangled, police said.

The officers said their two prisoners, both Negroes, said they planned to rob Harris but waited outside his office while an accomplice entered. They said they then became frightened and fled.

Stock Market Moderately Higher In Quiet Session

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP) — The stock market pushed higher in quiet trading today although there was a liberal share of small losers.

Leading issues turned higher soon after the opening and held steady through the session. Volume picked up toward the close and a renewed advance raised oils, aircrafts and coppers narrowly.

Volume totaled 1,790,000 shares, compared with 1,730,000 traded in another slow session yesterday.

The advance failed to recover all the ground lost in a mild decline yesterday. Gulf Oil, which lost 4⅝ in the previous session, was again heavily traded and picked up 2 points to close at 129¾. Royal Dutch was also favored and more than made up its small loss of yesterday with a gain of 2⅝.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $189.10, with industrials up $2.20, and rails and utilities both down 10 cents.

Of 1,139 issues traded, 465 advanced and 40 declined. However, new lows outnumbered new highs, 35 to 31.

Boeing was the most active issue of the day, with 28,700 shares traded. It advanced 2⅞ to 53⅝ following news that the Air Force had awarded the company two contracts totaling more than 576 million dollars.

Police Question Two In Death Of Harris

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP) —Police held two men for questioning today in the death of Roscoe Windom Harris, 65, brother-in-law of Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations undersecretary.

Detectives Joseph Stanczak and Robert R. Caldwell said robbery apparently was the motive for an attack upon Harris in his second floor real estate office. His body, bound with toweling, was found about noon yesterday by his wife Ruth, a sister of the U. N. official. Harris apparently had strangled, police said.

The officers said their two prisoners, both Negroes, said they planned to rob Harris but waited outside his office while an accomplice entered. They said they then became frightened and fled.

Chicago Polio Case Total Surges To 741

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Chicago's polio surge, moving into the peak mid-August September season, today tallied 25 new cases to boost the 1956 toll to 741 cases and 21 deaths.

The new daily figure approached a 24 hour high of 28 cases.

The report up to midnight Monday came on the heels of a slackened weekend pace that saw health officials hoping the peak of the city's serious emergency had arrived.

Closed July 6

The car shops at Keyser have been closed since July 6, when all units were furloughed due to the steel stoppage.

As the steel furnaces were banked, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad laid off some 5,000 workers, and the total layoffs exceeded that point as the drop in business affected road crews.

Shortly after the furloughs began, the Cumberland Division laid off about 120 men from the Back Shops here, about 300 at the Bolt and Forge Shops—which makes parts used by car repair units—and about 380 at the Keyser car shops.

Area Milk Survey Is Winding Up

Rating Is Vital For Interstate Shipments

The milk survey of the Cumberland area will wind up this week, according to Alexander A. Pais, Baltimore, milk supervisor for the Maryland State Department of Health.

During the survey which began July 24, all parts of the dairy industry in the Cumberland milkshed is being graded according to the universally accepted standards set up by the United States Public Health Service.

The scores made by dairy farms and milk processing plants will determine how well milk produced here will be accepted in other parts of Maryland and for interstate shipments.

Surplus Here

A considerable part of the some 30,000 gallons of milk processed daily by area dairies is not needed here, and such excess supplies are shipped to points as far east as Jersey City and as far south as Roanoke, Va.

Most milksheds, officials explained, normally will not accept milk shipped from areas which have lower gradings than they maintain if their milk is in satisfactory supply.

During the survey, Pais, assisted by J. B. Dowling and Harvey Shockley, of the Allegany County Health Department, have been rating farm producers and milk plants on their physical compliance with the USPHS standards.

Random Samples Used

Each of the eight milk plants is being graded and some 45 farm producers selected by random sampling—they were numbered and picked from a hat—are being visited.

Pais said he will compile the results of the survey from his office in Baltimore next week and report back to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer.

Illegal Deer Meat 'Dear,' Court Proves

Magistrate Donald W. Mason found Herman Crowe, 49, of Borden Mines, guilty of killing deer in a closed season, having illegal deer meat in his possession, and hunting without a license.

He was fined $100 on each of the first two counts and $20 on the last charge. His gun also was confiscated as a part of the sentence.

Mason also found Joseph Snyder, 23, of 212 West Main Street, Frostburg, guilty of having illegal deer meat in his possession. He was fined $100.

Game Wardens Joseph J. Keating and Theodore Thoerig obtained search warrants yesterday morning from the State's Attorney's Office and went to the homes of both men, where they found the meat in freezers.

The game wardens said there has been quite a bit of illegal shooting of deer recently, and many abandoned carcasses have been found in the woods.

Nursing School Graduates Will Hear Sermon

Graduation exercises for the School of Nursing of Memorial Hospital will begin Sunday, September 2, with a baccalaureate service at 11 a. m. at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of the church, will preach the sermon.

Meetings Scheduled

Two meetings are scheduled this week by Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, according to James Stein, preseident.

The local's executive board meets Thursday at 7 p. m. and a membership meeting will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

Revised Bus Schedule To Begin Sunday

The Cumberland Transit Lines will place a new bus schedule in service here Sunday.

Guy M. Davis, owner and operator of the firm, said the schedule improves service on some runs and removes "dead" portions from others.

It has been designed, he said, to "get people to work" and to improve service when possible, but to eliminate the unproductive spots in the schedule.

Weekend Reductions

Better service is provided, he said, on the Maryland Avenue run. Davis said service on this run will be at 15-minute intervals from 8:45 a. m. to 6 p. m., instead of the present 20-minute service at present.

The extra service, he said, is an experiment made on suggestion of the drivers who wanted to try out the effect of giving more service.

More Service

Davis said the schedules must be revised to allow the runs to average 25 passengers an hour, the break-even point for the operation of the local system.

He said he will welcome letters of suggestion for better service from individuals or civic groups who are interested in better service.

Civitans To Attend District Meeting

Who Sold What?

Suit Seeks Clear Title To Valuable Highway Land

An equity suit seeking to clarify title to a valuable tract of land on the south side of the National Highway about six miles west of Cumberland has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by the four sisters of the late George L. Longerbeam and their husbands against the Market Buildings Inc.

The four-and-three-quarter acre lot is situated just west of the parking lot serving the John J. Hafer mortuary at the intersection of National Highway and Braddock Road.

Hugh E. Kifer of Green Spring, W. Va., signed an agreement last August 26 to purchase the property in question for $25,000, according to the bill of complaint.

The Market Buildings Inc. has opposed the sale, contending that this tract was part of the 109 acres the corporation bought from the complainants by deed filed July 16, 1951. This claim has put an apparent cloud upon the title.

Attorney James S. Getty, who filed the suit, asks the court to declare that the complainants hold good title to the property.

Complainants are Katherine Beveridge and Paul Beveridge, her husband; Helene Keller and Ross Keller, her husband; Dorothy L. Genevie and Charles G. Genevie, her husband, and Mary Jane Keeth and Charles J. Keeth, her husband. They inherited the property from Longerbeam who died without a will and unmarried March 12, 1950.

The Baltimore accountant has audited the county books here since 1948, generally on an annual basis. The first audit embraced a 15-month period.

Judge Suspends Driver's Term In County Jail

The six-month jail sentence which Francis Joseph Weisenmiller, 137 Pennsylvania Avenue, received August 6 from Chief Judge Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court has been suspended and he has been placed on strict probation for two years.

Judge Henderson stipulated that Weisenmiller will be placed on probation two years under supervision of the probation and parole officer, must be on good behavior, abstain from the use of alcohol, surrender his driver's license and give his unopened pay envelope to his wife.

When he affirmed the decision of Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick August 6, Judge Henderson fined Weisenmiller $100 and costs and sentenced him to six months in the County Jail on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. It was his second offense.

On a second charge of failure to stop after a property damage accident, Weisenmiller was fined an additional $100 and costs August 6. This week Judge Henderson suspended the fine under the same probation terms as the other charge.

Judge Henderson originally also fined Weisenmiller $50 and costs on a reckless driving charge, but also suspended this fine Monday.

Weisenmiller was arrested after his car barely missed hitting two women and a child on West Oldtown Road July 30. He was in the County Jail from July 31 until August 13.

McKeldin Available For VP Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Maryland's Gov. Theodore McKeldin said tonight if he was asked by the White House he would feel honored to be the Republican vice presidential nominee.

But he added, he has not been asked, is not seeking the nomination and would squelch any individual move to nominate him at next week's GOP convention here.

"If it comes from the White House, I'm available," he told a news conference.

More Progress Urged On Polio Shot Program

Speedup Needed To Prevent Fall Cases

Maryland is making good progress in its polio vaccination program, according to Dr. Edward Davens, deputy director of the Maryland State Department of Health.

But Dr. Davens warned that "unless we achieve a prompt and marked acceleration of the number of vaccinations being done a number of children will be paralyzed in September, October and November who might have escaped."

He estimated that on July 31, 511,169, or 66.3 per cent of the 770,676 Maryland children in the 1 through 15 age group had received one or more inoculations of poliomyelitis vaccine.

Some 422,515, or 54.8 per cent of the children had received two or more shots of the vaccine.

Baltimore Is Leading

In that city, 69.7 per cent of the 1-15 age children had received one or more shot, and 58.4 per cent had received two or more inoculations.

On June 30, 46 per cent of Allegany County children had received one shot and 36 per cent had received two inoculations.

Since then, the Health Department has been giving shots at the rate of about 1,200 a month.

Have Best Record

Two Eastern Shore counties, Kent and Caroline, have the best record in the state, Dr. Davens said, reporting that both have a valid claim that more than 95 per cent of the 1-15 age group have received two or more inoculations.

These figures are all based on the former priority group, which has been broadened to include all from three months to 19 years of age inclusive, and all pregnant women.

Dr. Davens urged all health officers and physicians to "reiterate our confidence in the safety and effectiveness of the vaccine."

He pointed out that since January 1, there have been 16 definite cases of paralytic poliomyelitis in Maryland, and that none of those stricken had received any polio vaccine.

Did Not Use All

Maryland has not been making use of all the polio vaccine available to it, according to a report in the August issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The article, dealing with the increased Salk vaccine supply, points out that 32 states haxe extended the priority age through 19.

Priorities were liberalized some weeks ago by Maryland, and health officers and physicians were urged to expedite the program.

The article said that since some states were using all the vaccine they could obtain, the Public Health Service made a survey of all states to round up any surplus allocations.

Up to late June, 67,800,367 doses were released to states and territories from the start of the allocation program last April.

This week a carnival is being held by the McCoole volunteers, with a parade scheduled on Friday. A carnival will be held in Deer Park Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, with a parade planned on the opening night.

The Frostburg Fire Department, in cooperation with the Arion Band of that community, will hold a crab feast in the YMI Park from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday, August 26.

James McMorran, general chairman, said the affair is open to the public. The annual country supper will be held in the Town Hall, Deer Park, Wednesday, August 29, from 4 p. m. to 8 p.m. (EDT) for the benefit of the community fire department. Tickets are available for adults and children.

On September 13, a spaghetti supper will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. by the Clarysville firemen.

Activities this week will include movies today at 8:30 p.m., instead of Friday.

Illegal Deer Meat 'Dear,' Court Proves

Two Frostburg area residents found out yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court that deer meat can be mighty "dear."

Magistrate Donald W. Mason found Herman Crowe, 49, of Borden Mines, guilty of killing deer in a closed season, having illegal deer meat in his possession, and hunting without a license.

He was fined $100 on each of the first two counts and $20 on the last charge. His gun also was confiscated as a part of the sentence.

Crowe was committed to Allegany County Jail for 140 days in default of his fine.

Mason also found Joseph Snyder, 23, of 212 West Main Street, Frostburg, guilty of having illegal deer meat in his possession. He was fined $100.

Game Wardens Joseph J. Keating and Theodore Thoerig obtained search warrants yesterday morning from the State's Attorney's Office and went to the homes of both men, where they found the meat in freezers.

The men were questioned and Crowe admitted shooting the deer recently near Deep Creek Lake.

The game wardens said there has been quite a bit of illegal shooting of deer recently, and many abandoned carcasses have been found in the woods.

Nursing School Graduates Will Hear Sermon

Graduation exercises for the School of Nursing of Memorial Hospital will begin Sunday, September 2, with a baccalaureate service at 11 a. m. at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of the church, will preach the sermon.

Commencement is scheduled for Thursday, September 6, at the Fort Hill High School. R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, will address the 32 graduates, their parents and friends.

Meetings Scheduled

Two meetings are scheduled this week by Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, according to James Stein, preseident.

The local's executive board meets Thursday at 7 p. m. and a membership meeting will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

Revised Bus Schedule To Begin Sunday

The Cumberland Transit Lines will place a new bus schedule in service here Sunday.

Guy M. Davis, owner and operator of the firm, said the schedule improves service on some runs and removes "dead" portions from others.

It has been designed, he said, to "get people to work" and to improve service when possible, but to eliminate the unproductive spots in the schedule.

Weekend Reductions

Reduced runs on Saturday, he added, reflects the fact that area industries are operating with reduced crews over the weekend.

Better service is provided, he said, on the Maryland Avenue run. Davis said service on this run will be at 15-minute intervals from 8:45 a. m. to 6 p. m., instead of the present 20-minute service at present.

The extra service, he said, is an experiment made on suggestion of the drivers who wanted to try out the effect of giving more service.

More Service

Additional service also is being provided for Baltimore Avenue through rerouting of the Cresaptown run.

Davis said the schedules must be revised to allow the runs to average 25 passengers an hour, the break-even point for the operation of the local system.

He said he will welcome letters of suggestion for better service from individuals or civic groups who are interested in better service.

Civitans To Attend District Meeting

Cumberland will be represented at the first quarterly council meeting of the Chesapeake district of Civitan International, planned Saturday and Sunday at the Kenwood Golf and Country Club, Bethesda.

Local Civitans will join similar groups in other Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey communities as well as the District of Columbia.

Suit Seeks Clear Title To Valuable Highway Land

An equity suit seeking to clarify title to a valuable tract of land on the south side of the National Highway about six miles west of Cumberland has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by the four sisters of the late George L. Longerbeam and their husbands against the Market Buildings Inc.

The four-and-three-quarter acre lot is situated just west of the parking lot serving the John J. Hafer mortuary at the intersection of National Highway and Braddock Road.

Hugh E. Kifer of Green Spring, W. Va., signed an agreement last August 26 to purchase the property in question for $25,000, according to the bill of complaint.

The Market Buildings Inc. has opposed the sale, contending that this tract was part of the 109 acres the corporation bought from the complainants by deed filed July 16, 1951. This claim has put an apparent cloud upon the title.

Attorney James S. Getty, who filed the suit, asks the court to declare that the complainants hold good title to the property.

Complainants are Katherine Beveridge and Paul Beveridge, her husband; Helene Keller and Ross Keller, her husband; Dorothy L. Genevie and Charles G. Genevie, her husband, and Mary Jane Keeth and Charles J. Keeth, her husband. They inherited the property from Longerbeam who died without a will and unmarried March 12, 1950.

County Books Being Audited

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, reminded the public yesterday that James P. Rogers, a Baltimore accountant, is in the process of conducting the annual audit of the county's books for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Rogers has been at the Court House periodically since about the middle of July. He expects to finish the field work on the audit in about three weeks, and then will begin preparing his report.

The Baltimore accountant has audited the county books here since 1948, generally on an annual basis. The first audit embraced a 15-month period.

Victim Of Accident Shows Improvement

John I. Clark, 36, of Ellerslie, who was critically injured in a three-car crash Sunday in which two persons met death, is reported slightly improved at Memorial Hospital.

Another victim of the accident, Norma Sheirer, 17, of Hyndman, Pa., also is a patient in the hospital, and her condition remains critical. Clark was on the critical list when admitted.

Carol Ann Kendall, 15, of Hyndman, and Barbara Lea Clark, 4, were killed in the crash on Pennsylvania State Route 96 at Stringtown, about eight miles north of Cumberland.

Firemen To Present Benefit Show

LaVale Volunteer Firemen will sponsor "Laff-O-Rama," a home-town production, tonight and tomorrow in Allegany High School auditorium. Curtain time both nights is 8:13 p. m.

Russ Reynolds is master of ceremonies for the benefit production and advance tickets are on sale at Super Concrete Company, Wilson's Hardware, People's Drug Store and Gehauf's in LaVale.

Judge Suspends Driver's Term In County Jail

The six-month jail sentence which Francis Joseph Weisenmiller, 137 Pennsylvania Avenue, received August 6 from Chief Judge Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court has been suspended and he has been placed on strict probation for two years.

Judge Henderson stipulated that Weisenmiller will be placed on probation two years under supervision of the probation and parole officer, must be on good behavior, abstain from the use of alcohol, surrender his driver's license and give his unopened pay envelope to his wife.

When he affirmed the decision of Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick August 6, Judge Henderson fined Weisenmiller $100 and costs and sentenced him to six months in the County Jail on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. It was his second offense.

On a second charge of failure to stop after a property damage accident, Weisenmiller was fined an additional $100 and costs August 6. This week Judge Henderson suspended the fine under the same probation terms as the other charge.

Judge Henderson originally also fined Weisenmiller $50 and costs on a reckless driving charge, but also suspended this fine Monday.

Weisenmiller was arrested after his car barely missed hitting two women and a child on West Oldtown Road July 30. He was in the County Jail from July 31 until August 13.

McKeldin Available For VP Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 (AP)—Maryland's Gov. Theodore McKeldin said tonight if he was asked by the White House he would feel honored to be the Republican vice presidential nominee.

But he added, he has not been asked, is not seeking the nomination and would squelch any individual move to nominate him at next week's GOP convention here.

"If it comes from the White House, I'm available," he told a news conference.

More Progress Urged On Polio Shot Program

Speedup Needed To Prevent Fall Cases

Maryland is making good progress in its polio vaccination program, according to Dr. Edward Davens, deputy director of the Maryland State Department of Health.

But Dr. Davens warned that "unless we achieve a prompt and marked acceleration of the number of vaccinations being done a number of children will be paralyzed in September, October and November who might have escaped."

He estimated that on July 31, 511,169, or 66.3 per cent of the 770,676 Maryland children in the 1 through 15 age group had received one or more inoculations of poliomyelitis vaccine.

Some 422,515, or 54.8 per cent of the children had received two or more shots of the vaccine.

Baltimore Is Leading

Baltimore City youngsters, Dr. Davens said, were better protected than children in the state as a whole.

In that city, 69.7 per cent of the 1-15 age children had received one or more shot, and 58.4 per cent had received two or more inoculations.

On June 30, 46 per cent of Allegany County children had received one shot and 36 per cent had received two inoculations.

Since then, the Health Department has been giving shots at the rate of about 1,200 a month.

Have Best Record

Two Eastern Shore counties, Kent and Caroline, have the best record in the state, Dr. Davens said, reporting that both have a valid claim that more than 95 per cent of the 1-15 age group have received two or more inoculations.

These figures are all based on the former priority group, which has been broadened to include all from three months to 19 years of age inclusive, and all pregnant women.

Dr. Davens urged all health officers and physicians to "reiterate our confidence in the safety and effectiveness of the vaccine."

He pointed out that since January 1, there have been 16 definite cases of paralytic poliomyelitis in Maryland, and that none of those stricken had received any polio vaccine.

Did Not Use All

Maryland has not been making use of all the polio vaccine available to it, according to a report in the August issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The article, dealing with the increased Salk vaccine supply, points out that 32 states haxe extended the priority age through 19.

Priorities were liberalized some weeks ago by Maryland, and health officers and physicians were urged to expedite the program.

The article said that since some states were using all the vaccine they could obtain, the Public Health Service made a survey of all states to round up any surplus allocations.

Seven of the states — including Maryland and West Virginia—also waived their right to a share in the next allocation.

Mapleside Playground won first prize in Division 2, for playgrounds which have but one leader. Increased interest in handicraft work has been noted on playgrounds this summer. The articles are on display in the storeroom used last year as Bicentennial headquarters.

'Thank You' Notes:

Letters Of Commendation Received By City Police

The Cumberland Police Department has been commended in three letters of appreciation, including one received from Girl Scout Troop 84 in Lexington, Ky.

The Girl Scouts expressed thanks for the kindness of the Police Department in providing them with a city park in which to stay August 2.

Judy Green, who wrote the letter, said, "we certainly enjoyed our stay, and thanks again for our special patrol."

The Cumberland Cloak and Suit Store Company expressed thanks to Officers Frank Carner and Paul Penrod, who notified store officials that two doors had been found unlocked. This was early yesterday morning.

"If they had not carried out their duties in a conscientious and intelligent manner," according to Mrs. Lena Kauffman, "it is possible that we may have suffered a loss by theft or vandalism."

In the other letter, Col. George H. Sibbald, of Maryland Military District headquarters, Baltimore, thanked Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn for "helpful cooperation during my visit to Cumberland in behalf of the Army Reserve program."
